Pay hikes for lawmakers nearing officials passage

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Pay hikes for state lawmakers, statewide elected officials and judges cleared its last hurdle to final consideration in the Missouri Senate Wednesday.

And soon after the Senate Budget Control Committee endorsed the pay hike proposals, Democratic Floor Leader John Schneider predicted the bills will come up for consideration next week and "they will pass."

The committee, which assesses the state's ability to pay for legislation, passed the pay hike for legislators on a 3-2 vote, the hike for statewide elected officials on a 4-0 vote with one abstention and the judges' pay increase on a 6-0 vote.

Reassessment is aimed at equalizing property valuations upon which property taxes are based. Studies have indicated most property in Missouri is valued at less than the required 33 per cent of true value.

In other committee action Wednesday, the House Fees, Salaries and Retirement committee revived statewide reassessment of property in the state by tacking it on to a Senate bill the committee was considering. A House bill calling for statewide property reassessment had been defeated by a Senate committee earlier.

Property valuation is a key factor in the distribution of school aid in the state, and inaccurate valuations of property can result in unequal distribution of state aid to schools.

If approved by the House, a compromise would still need to be reached between the two chambers on the measure before it could be sent to the governor. House committee members supporting adding the reassessment provision to the Senate bill said they hoped to bypass the Senate committee that had voted it down in order to gain consideration by the full Senate.

Before the provision was tacked on, the Senate bill dealt only with compensation for county assessors.

The pay hike proposals, which have already cleared the House, are part of a four-point pay increase package. Raises for state department directors have already passed the House and await action in a Senate committee.

Under the measures approved Wednesday, legislators would receive $15,000 a year— up from the current $8,400 yearly salary. The governor's annual salary would be boosted from $37,500 to $55,000, the lieutenant governor's from $16,000 to $30,000 and other statewide officials' salaires would increase from $17,500 to $22,500 per year.

Dexter, Inland shoe sign building lease

DEXTER — Officials of the city and Inland Shoe Co. officially signed a lease Wednesday afternoon that will bring the company to Dexter.

The shoe company will move into a building formerly used by International Hat Co. on North Poplar Street International is transferring its work to a new addition being built at its West Market Street plant in Dexter.

"This facility in Dexter will be growth," Steve Jonas, president of Westboro and Gateway Shoe companies, said. He estimated that the new plant will employ from 50 to 75 persons at first.

Westboro and Gateway, as well as Inland, are all subsidiaries of Michael Industries of New York City. The facility at the Dexter plant will be operated by Westboro Co.

Jonas told the officials and members of the press gathered for the signing that logistically the Dexter location is perfect for the firm's needs and said, "When I got off the plane and saw Mayor (Willis) Conner in the runway, I knew I didn't have a chance."

The shoe industry as a whole has been suffering hard times due to imports, but Inland has been growing by "leaps and bounds," Jonas said.

The Dexter operation will get started "as soon as we can get in and get going," he said, then added that jobs should become available right away.

Bob Diehl, local businessman and Chamber of Commerce member, and Conner also made brief remarks in which they pointed out the low unemployment rate in the Dexter area.

Among the officials present were Gary Davault, vice president of Inland; Bob Crites, factory manager for the new Dexter plant; and Jerry Opinsky, vice president of Gateway.

The hat factory had occupied the city-owned building since about 1963. Prior to that, the facility had been used as a shoe factory.

5 hurt in area accidents

Five persons received minor injuries in three separate single-vehicle accidents Wednesday on area roads, the highway patrol said today.

Ronnie Dale Ricketts, 25, Fisk Route One, received minor injuries in an accident at 5:30 p.m. on Route U, nine miles west of Bernie.

The patrol said a pickup truck driven west by Ricketts ran off the road and overturned. He was taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

At 8 p.m. on Live Oak Road, one mile south of Poplar Bluff, Ronnie Lee Davis, 19, of Poplar Bluff, traveling west at a high rate of speed, lost control of his car, which ran off the road and into a ditch.

Three persons received minor injuries in an accident at 7:40 p.m. on Highway 34, one-half mile west of Lutesville. The patrol said a pickup truck driven west at a high rate of speed by Jackie Wayne James, 33, of Marble Hill, ran off the road, causing the driver to lose control. The truck traveled back across the highway, struck a culvert and then struck a utility pole.

James and two passengers, Michael Lynn Fisher, 20 and Ricky Dale Fisher, 21, both of Lutesville, were taken to Chaffee General Hospital.

3 nominees await Industrial awards

Two Southeast Missouri community organizations and a New Madrid man are among the candidates to receive awards tonight at the 19th annual Missouri Industrial Development Conference in Jefferson City.

Candidates for awards for promotional literature are the Charleston Industrial Development Commission for stuffers, mailers and flyers and the Dexter Chamber of Commerce for Industrial Development Studies.

Also a nominee for an award for "Outstanding leadership in the field of economic development" is Sam Hunter Jr. of New Madrid.

Hunter, president and chairman of the board of the Bank of New Madrid, was a key leader in the three-year effort to attract Noranda Aluminum, Inc., to New Madrid.

The awards will be presented by Gov. Joseph Teasdale.

This afternoon, Peter Armstrong, director of the state's International Business Office discussed the operation of the overseas office in Duesseldorf W. Germany and representatives of Albany and Perryville discussed their communitites industrial success in attracting industry.

Friday morning, a panel of resource experts will discuss educating community leaders in industrial financing.

Patti top playmate

Patti McGuire, formerly of Dexter and St. Louis, has been selected by Playboy magazine as "Playmate of the Year," and will be introduced to the nation in a special television show tonight, reportedly the first Playmate ever to be presented in this fashion. She will be introduced by TV star Dick Martin.

Two memorable events hit Southeast Missouri in October, 1976: the trial of Dr. Norman Garrison of Corinth, Miss. for first degree murder and the issue of Playboy magazine featuring Patti McGuire, formerly of Dexter and St. Louis.

For weeks during and after the events, they were the main topics of conversation. The papers featuring accounts of the trial, and the magazines featuring Patti, sold out quickly.

She had apparently moved away from Dexter many years before, but it seemed to be a case of home-town folk wanting to see what one of their own made of herself. It was a running joke that the magazines sold out so quickly because of the infamous interview with Jimmy Carter in the same issue.

In the biographical information about her, she is listed as a native of St. Louis.

I covered the trial, but somehow missed the assignment to interview Patti. Shucks.

"The people I met in L.A. tried to tell me that the California life was tops," she said. "It's not. For one thing, the sex is better right here in St. Louis."

To those who missed her in that earlier appearance, Patti is featured again in the current issue of the magazine as "Playmate of the Year" and will be on a Hugh Hefner special to be shown tonight.

A press release about her appearance stated, "Patti was the unanimous choice of Playboy's editorial staff and one of the most beautiful women ever to grace the magazine."

The blurb continues, "In fact, Patti's lovely face on the cover might have helped to change the course of history when ads for Gerald Ford used the November Playboy cover as a symbol of what the opposition stood for."

Her face on that cover peered out at the reader under the Playboy logo. Photographer Pompeo Posar said of that look: "The look of pure seduction is one I've tried to capture many times over the years. It all depends on the eyes. I think I finally succeeded with Patti."

In that November, 1976 issue she was quoted as saying she was offered several modeling and acting jobs in Los Angeles, but turned them down to return to St. Louis to complete her education.

She was a political science major at Southern Illinois University, and had worked in a political campaign for then governor Christopher "Kit" Bond as coordinator of nine St. Louis area colleges.

She said then she wanted to eventually become a consumer affairs investigator along the line of "Nader's Raiders."

The latest release says she needs 37 credit hours to complete her degree, but school might have to wait, she is moving to Los Angeles soon.

"The cold wave last winter helped me make that decision, but my primary reason for moving is to break into modeling. I really want to work in television commercials," she was quoted as saying.

As Playmate of the Year, she has been awarded a car, bicycle, motorcycle, C.B. radio, $10,000 cash, stereo system, cassette recorder, color t.v., camera, watch, binoculars and luggage.

TIME FOR A BABY BOOM?

The United States is due for another baby boom, thinks one observer — the Pill, more women working and concern over population control notwithstanding.

The very fact that the birth rate has fallen to 1.8 children per woman, less than replacement level, almost insures it will happen, says University of Michigan economist and demographer Prof. Donald D. Lee.

"Today's children will comprise a relatively small age group when they become young adults during the 1980s and 1990s," he says. "As a result, their job and income prospects will be improved. Feeling more prosperous, they will marry earlier and have more children. Families of three or more children will become common again."

He notes that during the Depression of the 1930s, the birth rate dipped to about 2.1 children per woman, exactly replacement level. Because there were so few children in that age group, they fared better with jobs and income when they reached maturity.

These young adults gave birth to more children during the postwar years. When the baby-boom children in turn began coming of age during the 1960s and 1970s, this much larger population found itself faring worse economically and because of it elected to have fewer children.

As further evidence of the powerful influence of economics on the birth rate, Lee points out that the Depression-era figure of 2.1 was achieved long before many contraceptives used today were invented. The birth rate peaked in 1957 at 3.7, and then began a steady fall to the current 1.8 more than a decade before the environmental and women's liberation movements.

It isn't absolute income that affects a generation's birth rate, however, but how income compares with expectations. Because they are both fewer in number and are growing up in an era of economic uncertainty, Lee believes today's children will find themselves in better economic circumstances than they expect and will thus repeat the reproductive performance of the children of the '30s.

LOTS OF PARKING LOTS

The average shopping center parking lot is more than 25 per cent larger than it needs to be, according to a study by a transportation planning or ganization.

While most shopping centers are built with 5.5 parking spaces for each, 1,000 square feet of gross leasable area in the center, the survey found that even on the busiest shopping days of the year — weekends between Thanksgiving and Christmas — only a tiny fraction of the shopping centers needed that much room for customers' cars, reports the national accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand.

Unfortunately, the study doesn't say how many parking spaces are taken up by people who park crosswise or who deliberately take two spaces to protect their fenders from their neighbors' door edges, or how many spaces are occupied by abandoned shopping cars.

Seriously, though, the study points out that this excess parking space is simply wasted space that could be better utilized for landscaping or for other productive and profitable uses. Additional savings could be realized from lower maintenance costs for smaller parking lots.

LEAVE IT UP TO THE AREA PEOPLE

Congressman Ichord thinks any vote on the building of Meramec Dam near Sullivan should be taken only among those who live in the area and are affected by it—those who live in three counties. Some others faver a state-wide vote on the matter.

It should be left to the area people. They are the ones who know what effect it will have on them and on their home area and should be allowed to decide the matter. The rest of us know little or nothing about the dam or it's effect on the area, nor do we know whether it is good or bad. Few of us could vote intelligently on the matter. The home folks can.

THE FUTURE OF GOV. TEASDALE

Gov. Teasdale took office in January.

But his start was not usual and was not running.

The reason is understandable. Most new Missouri governors have had previous experience in Jefferson City.

Joe Teasdale had none.

But he did have at his elbow some of the best minds and most experienced Jeffersson City hands in the Democratic party.

He chose not to use them, at least, not extensively. Maybe that's good. Maybe a totally new broom, as it were, is best for Missouri.

But so far it isn't In fact, the Governor's first couple of months in office are not impressive.

Most Missourians did not believe the Governor the other day when he said:

"Who said I couldn't be Governor, there's nothing to it."

That statement left most Missourians asking when will the new Governor discover there is much to it.

All of which is leading to increased, if premature, speculation about the race for the office three years form now.

Kit Bond, in losing to Teasdale, made it clear he was in the race. Clearly, his every effort is now aimed at winning back the office.

However, we are not at all sure Missouri will see another Teasdale-Bond race.

Reuther, Kennedy, Carter: President's Big Test: Will Auto Union Workers' convention boo Jimmy over 'Gas'?

WASHINGTON— There will be over $350 million in the United Auto Workers' strike fund war chest by the fall of 1979. By that September – when begin the final days of most of the massive independent union's depression-sired militant leaders - the UAW car maufacturers's contract will be oepn for action.

But what action? For what targets? Who'll make the decision in these final days of the late Walter Reuther's veterans of the white-capped flying squad, seize-the-plants revolutionary years?

In the union's national Solidarity House top executive suite in Detroit, there soon will be the 60-year-old, Scottish-born high school dropout Doug Fraser, personally selected 26 years ago by the "Redhead" (Reuther) as the 1.4-million-member union's president.

At the UAW's 25th constitutional convention in Los Angeles next week, Doug will succeed Jimmy Carter's closest labor ally – the incumbent president Leonard Woodcock, first of America's major union chiefs to back the President in the primaries and first to actually retire from the UAW presidency. As a vice president he succeeded the Redhead after Ruther died in a 1970 fog-shrounded plane crash. In 1946, Ealter beat the late R. J. "Thommy" Thomas, then president, in a clangorous, uproarious convention by a razor-edged 166 votes.

In the late '70s, decision-making in the UAW won't be easy. Half the UAW's members are young -- with less than six years in the plants. And among those 700,000 newcomers, youth hasn't been wasted on the young whom I'm told average 30 years of age or less.

There are powerful black militant leaders, caucuses and factions. There are the "children" of the Southerners who came over the river from the South during World War II as "kids" themselves. There are the hundreds of thousands who saw Alabama Gov. George Wallace as their leader and voted for him for President in the primaries.

There are Arabs and Chicanos. They could all be a mixed bag of woes for the new president.

It won't be Walter's or Woodcock's shoes alone Doug Fraser must fill. It's the UAW's Reutherite leadership cadre's traditional philosophical Socialism and world working-class solidarity which will run like a TV teleprompter as Fraser goes into battle.

And what's left for Fraser during the two terms he has before he must retire because of a 65-year-old age limit on any candidate? There's the shortening of the shorter work week in which the UAW pioneered. Less time on the job. The final goal – a four-day work week.

And there's the siren pull of the mostly non-unionized sunbelt. But none of all this will satisfy the militant membership -- growing ever younger as though it has taken long swigs of Ponce de Leon's magic well.The old-timers are "retiring out." Their pensions will run high – over $700 a month.

There will be "new" Southern organizing campaigns and goals. Fraser may seek to follow his British colleagues in "Chrysler United Kingdom" – and get the corporate books open, even the confidential data. Get some form of co-management "right." It's all conjecture. Why?

Doug Fraser says, "We are all victims of our own propaganda. He realizes that his old cadres and comrades by the hundreds, the Reugher men who must retire en masse by 1983, haven't any instant recognition factor among the union's youner workers who are far more fascinated by income than by ideology.

He knows that many labor officials were revolutionaries in the '30s. Took power from the extremists and hung tough in the '40s. Consolidated into hard bargainers in the '50s. Became statesmen in the '60s. Are pondering retirement to sun cities in the '70s. And eyeing the younger men who will succeed them in the '80s. Dominating their musing are the younger workers' militant drumbeats.

But at the auto union convention on Monday, May 16, there will be instant recognition -- for Ted Kennedy, surrogate for his tragic brothers. And there will be a measure of the convention's militancy – youth and all -- when the anti-"gas guzzler" and high gas tax proponent Jimmy Carter takes the platform the next day, if all goes as scheduled.

Will the 3,000 delegates and 2,000 guests rip the air with screams of "Jimmy, Jimmy" as they did "Jack, Jack"? Or will they tell the President off? He hasn't endeared himself to them with criticism of big cars. This may cost many jobs. And those long weekends and hunting trips will take a bigger bite of the family's gas budget.

For President Carter, his labor convention debut could be more significant than any of his pollster Pat Caddell's confidential reports. In front of him will be the older delegates – as well as the youthful, the seasoned skilled craftsmen, the cynics who've listened to many a professed friend. If Sen. Kennedy gets the edge and there are boos for the man from Plains – or even silence or what's known as polite applause -- the working people will have sent him a message.

If Jimmy tears the 5,000 delegates and guest off their Convention Center seats, the President will have sent a message to the rest of American labor which is so unhappy with him.

Mr. Carter will have fragmented the common front of the traditional men of power inside labor. He will have shown that he needn't deal with the veterans of the AFL-CIO – and that he does have a base in the "movement." He will have shown that he really owes little to any one union chief. That is-- if Jimmy rips them off their seats.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Cancer-Linked Drug PR Firm Tries To Sell

by Jack Anderson
and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON -- An apocryphal story is told about an advertising firm which was asked to produce a slick campaign to sell cigarettes after the Surgeon General determined they caused cancer. For days, the ad men agonized over how to overcome the health-hazard problem. At last, a bright young executive came up with a slogan for the new campaign: "Cancer is good for you!"

Huckstering hasn't quite sunk to that level at Hill and Knowlton, the nation's largest public relations firm. But the New York firm has secretly proposed an all-out media offensive to push a drug that has been linked to cancer and birth defects.

The drug is estrogen, which millions of women in menopause take to replace the hormones they have lost. But recent tests indicate that use of the drug increases the risk of cancer of the uterus.

Ayerst Laboratories, which produces an estrogen drug called Premarin, responded to the danger by adding a warning to the label. But Hill and Knowlton viewed the cancer risk merely as a public relations problem. "Menopause remains a fashionable topic, cancer is alaways current, drug side effects have not lost their journalistic appeal," the firm warned. "Sales could be eroding at an accelerating rate."

Disregarding the medical evidence, the firm called for "a communications program to provide quick counteraction" to the news that estrogen users were more likely to get cancer. The PR firm offered to "counteract unfavorable publicity incidents" by placing "a comprehensive article on the menopause in a major women's magazine." The article would be slanted, presumably, in favor of estrogen.

"The prime targets here would be McCall's, Ladies Home Journal, Family Circle and Redbook," the company suggested. "A possible theme is the stages of life that women pass through -- the triumphs, tragedies, challenges of each."

The firm was also prepared to place articles "with syndicated columnists on newspapers' women's pages." The company's own hucksters would also write articles for small-town readers. "Features and shorter fillers should be distributed to suburban and small town daily and weekly newspapers through Hill and Knowlton's service that provides, free of charge, material in ready-to-use form."

The company even wanted to hire and train a "television spokeswoman" who would defend the drug on talk shows across the country. A film on menopause, touting the drug, could also be shown to women's clubs, the firm suggested.

The PR men offered to train Ayerst spokesmen to rebut "damaging commentary" by delivering "a prepared or spontaneous comment confidentially and convincingly."

Ayerst flatly rejected the Hill and Knowlton scheme. It "seemed to be insensitive to the concern about cancer and estrogen therapy," a spokeswoman explained.

But Hill and Knowlton has been consoled. The firm has been hired to promote saccharin, another drug that tests have shown could cause cancer. The PR experts will utilize their many strategies to attack the Food and Drug Administration for banning saccharin.

This multimillion-dollar campaign will be financed by the Calorie Control Council, a group of diet soda producers that rely on the artificial sweetener.

Footnote: The Hill and Knowlton vice president who drafted the estrogen promotion, Stanley Sauerhaft, assured us there was nothing "underhanded" about his scheme. "It was a proposal to put some balance and perspective into the whole picture," he told our associate, Howie Kurtz.

HOT LETTER -- The Internal Revenue Service has jeopardized a half-billion-dollar investigation of wealthy tax evaders by removing its top agent from the case. This will be good news, in particular, for mobsters who hide their ill-gotten cash in secret offshore bank accounts.

The suspended agentt is Richard Jaffe, a widely respected tax sleuth in Miami. He has been called off Project Haven, a massive probe of foreign bank accounts that are used to evade taxes.

Jaffe was suspended after Cleveland Federal Judge John Manos, in a controversial decision, declared that the agent had obtained evidence illegally. Yet Internal Revenue's own inspectors cleared Jaffe of the same charges after an exhaustive, 18-month investigation. He was also cleared by a federal grand jury.

The tough Jaffe didn't take his suspension lying down. He fired off a sizzling, secret letter to his superiors on May 2, according to his lawyer, Jack Solwerwitz. "With its customary short sightedness," he wrote, "the IRS has taken action it will have cause to regret."

He predicted that the judge's "ruling will be reversed" and that "the IRS will wind up with egg on its face." Meanwhile, his gutless bosses, he charged, had made him a "sacrificial lamb."

In suspending Jaffe from the case, the IRS has abandoned one of its best investigators. He has received numerous commendations for his investigations of organized crime cases.

Judge Manos' decision came during the prosecution of Jack Payner, a reputed Ohio racketeer, who was the first Project Haven subject to be brought to court for falsely answering a bank account question on the tax forms. If the decision stands, it will jeopardize many pending Project Haven cases, since the same evidence has been used to nail other alleged tax evaders.

The evidence, consisting of a stolen Rolodex file and banking files, was obtained by Jaffe's informant, Norman Casper, who managed to get the names of the people who held secret accounts in the Castle Bank of the Bahamas.

TIME FOR A BABY BOOM?

The United States is due for another baby boom, thinks one observer — the Pill, more women working and concern over population control notwithstanding.

The very fact that the birth rate has fallen to 1.8 children per woman, less than replacement level, almost insures it will happen, says University of Michigan economist and demographer Prof. Donald D. Lee.

"Today's children will comprise a relatively small age group when they become young adults during the 1980s and 1990s," he says. "As a result, their job and income prospects will be improved. Feeling more prosperous, they will marry earlier and have more children. Families of three or more children will become common again."

He notes that during the Depression of the 1930s, the birth rate dipped to about 2.1 children per woman, exactly replacement level. Because there were so few children in that age group, they fared better with jobs and income when they reached maturity.

These young adults gave birth to more children during the postwar years. When the baby-boom children in turn began coming of age during the 1960s and 1970s, this much larger population found itself faring worse economically and because of it elected to have fewer children.

As further evidence of the powerful influence of economics on the birth rate, Lee points out that the Depression-era figure of 2.1 was achieved long before many contraceptives used today were invented. The birth rate peaked in 1957 at 3.7, and then began a steady fall to the current 1.8 more than a decade before the environmental and women's liberation movements.

It isn't absolute income that affects a generation's birth rate, however, but how income compares with expectations. Because they are both fewer in number and are growing up in an era of economic uncertainty, Lee believes today's children will find themselves in better economic circumstances than they expect and will thus repeat the reproductive performance of the children of the '30s.

LOTS OF PARKING LOTS

The average shopping center parking lot is more than 25 per cent larger than it needs to be, according to a study by a transportation planning or ganization.

While most shopping centers are built with 5.5 parking spaces for each, 1,000 square feet of gross leasable area in the center, the survey found that even on the busiest shopping days of the year — weekends between Thanksgiving and Christmas — only a tiny fraction of the shopping centers needed that much room for customers' cars, reports the national accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand.

Unfortunately, the study doesn't say how many parking spaces are taken up by people who park crosswise or who deliberately take two spaces to protect their fenders from their neighbors' door edges, or how many spaces are occupied by abandoned shopping cars.

Seriously, though, the study points out that this excess parking space is simply wasted space that could be better utilized for landscaping or for other productive and profitable uses. Additional savings could be realized from lower maintenance costs for smaller parking lots.

LEAVE IT UP TO THE AREA PEOPLE

Congressman Ichord thinks any vote on the building of Meramec Dam near Sullivan should be taken only among those who live in the area and are affected by it—those who live in three counties. Some others faver a state-wide vote on the matter.

It should be left to the area people. They are the ones who know what effect it will have on them and on their home area and should be allowed to decide the matter. The rest of us know little or nothing about the dam or it's effect on the area, nor do we know whether it is good or bad. Few of us could vote intelligently on the matter. The home folks can.

THE FUTURE OF GOV. TEASDALE

Gov. Teasdale took office in January.

But his start was not usual and was not running.

The reason is understandable. Most new Missouri governors have had previous experience in Jefferson City.

Joe Teasdale had none.

But he did have at his elbow some of the best minds and most experienced Jeffersson City hands in the Democratic party.

He chose not to use them, at least, not extensively. Maybe that's good. Maybe a totally new broom, as it were, is best for Missouri.

But so far it isn't In fact, the Governor's first couple of months in office are not impressive.

Most Missourians did not believe the Governor the other day when he said:

"Who said I couldn't be Governor, there's nothing to it."

That statement left most Missourians asking when will the new Governor discover there is much to it.

All of which is leading to increased, if premature, speculation about the race for the office three years form now.

Kit Bond, in losing to Teasdale, made it clear he was in the race. Clearly, his every effort is now aimed at winning back the office.

However, we are not at all sure Missouri will see another Teasdale-Bond race.

Reuther, Kennedy, Carter: President's Big Test: Will Auto Union Workers' convention boo Jimmy over 'Gas'?

WASHINGTON— There will be over $350 million in the United Auto Workers' strike fund war chest by the fall of 1979. By that September -- when begin the final days of most of the massive independent union's depression-sired militant leaders - the UAW car maufacturers's contract will be oepn for action.

But what action? For what targets? Who'll make the decision in these final days of the late Walter Reuther's veterans of the white-capped flying squad, seize-the-plants revolutionary years?

In the union's national Solidarity House top executive suite in Detroit, there soon will be the 60-year-old, Scottish-born high school dropout Doug Fraser, personally selected 26 years ago by the "Redhead" (Reuther) as the 1.4-million-member union's president.

At the UAW's 25th constitutional convention in Los Angeles next week, Doug will succeed Jimmy Carter's closest labor ally -- the incumbent president Leonard Woodcock, first of America's major union chiefs to back the President in the primaries and first to actually retire from the UAW presidency. As a vice president he succeeded the Redhead after Ruther died in a 1970 fog-shrounded plane crash. In 1946, Ealter beat the late R. J. "Thommy" Thomas, then president, in a clangorous, uproarious convention by a razor-edged 166 votes.

In the late '70s, decision-making in the UAW won't be easy. Half the UAW's members are young -- with less than six years in the plants. And among those 700,000 newcomers, youth hasn't been wasted on the young whom I'm told average 30 years of age or less.

There are powerful black militant leaders, caucuses and factions. There are the "children" of the Southerners who came over the river from the South during World War II as "kids" themselves. There are the hundreds of thousands who saw Alabama Gov. George Wallace as their leader and voted for him for President in the primaries.

There are Arabs and Chicanos. They could all be a mixed bag of woes for the new president.

It won't be Walter's or Woodcock's shoes alone Doug Fraser must fill. It's the UAW's Reutherite leadership cadre's traditional philosophical Socialism and world working-class solidarity which will run like a TV teleprompter as Fraser goes into battle.

And what's left for Fraser during the two terms he has before he must retire because of a 65-year-old age limit on any candidate? There's the shortening of the shorter work week in which the UAW pioneered. Less time on the job. The final goal – a four-day work week.

And there's the siren pull of the mostly non-unionized sunbelt. But none of all this will satisfy the militant membership – growing ever younger as though it has taken long swigs of Ponce de Leon's magic well The old-timers are "retiring out." Their pensions will run high – over $700 a month.

There will be "new" Southern organizing campaigns and goals. Fraser may seek to follow his British colleagues in "Chrysler United Kingdom" – and get the corporate books open, even the confidential data. Get some form of co-management "right." It's all conjecture. Why?

Doug Fraser says, "We are all victims of our own propaganda. He realizes that his old cadres and comrades by the hundreds, the Reugher men who must retire en masse by 1983, haven't any instant recognition factor among the union's youner workers who are far more fascinated by income than by ideology.

He knows that many labor officials were revolutionaries in the '30s. Took power from the extremists and hung tough in the '40s. Consolidated into hard bargainers in the '50s. Became statesmen in the '60s. Are pondering retirement to sun cities in the '70s. And eyeing the younger men who will succeed them in the '80s. Dominating their musing are the younger workers' militant drumbeats.

But at the auto union convention on Monday, May 16, there will be instant recognition -- for Ted Kennedy, surrogate for his tragic brothers. And there will be a measure of the convention's militancy – youth and all -- when the anti-"gas guzzler" and high gas tax proponent Jimmy Carter takes the platform the next day, if all goes as scheduled.

Will the 3,000 delegates and 2,000 guests rip the air with screams of "Jimmy, Jimmy" as they did "Jack, Jack"? Or will they tell the President off? He hasn't endeared himself to them with criticism of big cars. This may cost many jobs. And those long weekends and hunting trips will take a bigger bite of the family's gas budget.

For President Carter, his labor convention debut could be more significant than any of his pollster Pat Caddell's confidential reports. In front of him will be the older delegates – as well as the youthful, the seasoned skilled craftsmen, the cynics who've listened to many a professed friend. If Sen. Kennedy gets the edge and there are boos for the man from Plains – or even silence or what's known as polite applause -- the working people will have sent him a message.

If Jimmy tears the 5,000 delegates and guest off their Convention Center seats, the President will have sent a message to the rest of American labor which is so unhappy with him.

Mr. Carter will have fragmented the common front of the traditional men of power inside labor. He will have shown that he needn't deal with the veterans of the AFL-CIO – and that he does have a base in the "movement." He will have shown that he really owes little to any one union chief. That is-- if Jimmy rips them off their seats.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON -- An apocryphal story is told about an advertising firm which was asked to produce a slick campaign to sell cigarettes after the Surgeon General determined they caused cancer. For days, the ad men agonized over how to overcome the health-hazard problem. At last, a bright young executive came up with a slogan for the new campaign: "Cancer is good for you!"

Huckstering hasn't quite sunk to that level at Hill and Knowlton, the nation's largest public relations firm. But the New York firm has secretly proposed an all-out media offensive to push a drug that has been linked to cancer and birth defects.

The drug is estrogen, which millions of women in menopause take to replace the hormones they have lost. But recent tests indicate that use of the drug increases the risk of cancer of the uterus.

Ayerst Laboratories, which produces an estrogen drug called Premarin, responded to the danger by adding a warning to the label. But Hill and Knowlton viewed the cancer risk merely as a public relations problem. "Menopause remains a fashionable topic, cancer is alaways current, drug side effects have not lost their journalistic appeal," the firm warned. "Sales could be eroding at an accelerating rate."

Disregarding the medical evidence, the firm called for "a communications program to provide quick counteraction" to the news that estrogen users were more likely to get cancer. The PR firm offered to "counteract unfavorable publicity incidents" by placing "a comprehensive article on the menopause in a major women's magazine." The article would be slanted, presumably, in favor of estrogen.

"The prime targets here would be McCall's, Ladies Home Journal, Family Circle and Redbook," the company suggested. "A possible theme is the stages of life that women pass through -- the triumphs, tragedies, challenges of each."

The firm was also prepared to place articles "with syndicated columnists on newspapers' women's pages." The company's own hucksters would also write articles for small-town readers. "Features and shorter fillers should be distributed to suburban and small town daily and weekly newspapers through Hill and Knowlton's service that provides, free of charge, material in ready-to-use form."

The company even wanted to hire and train a "television spokeswoman" who would defend the drug on talk shows across the country. A film on menopause, touting the drug, could also be shown to women's clubs, the firm suggested.

The PR men offered to train Ayerst spokesmen to rebut "damaging commentary" by delivering "a prepared or spontaneous comment confidentially and convincingly."

Ayerst flatly rejected the Hill and Knowlton scheme. It "seemed to be insensitive to the concern about cancer and estrogen therapy," a spokeswoman explained.

But Hill and Knowlton has been consoled. The firm has been hired to promote saccharin, another drug that tests have shown could cause cancer. The PR experts will utilize their many strategies to attack the Food and Drug Administration for banning saccharin.

This multimillion-dollar campaign will be financed by the Calorie Control Council, a group of diet soda producers that rely on the artificial sweetener.

Footnote: The Hill and Knowlton vice president who drafted the estrogen promotion, Stanley Sauerhaft, assured us there was nothing "underhanded" about his scheme. "It was a proposal to put some balance and perspective into the whole picture," he told our associate, Howie Kurtz.

HOT LETTER -- The Internal Revenue Service has jeopardized a half-billion-dollar investigation of wealthy tax evaders by removing its top agent from the case. This will be good news, in particular, for mobsters who hide their ill-gotten cash in secret offshore bank accounts.

The suspended agentt is Richard Jaffe, a widely respected tax sleuth in Miami. He has been called off Project Haven, a massive probe of foreign bank accounts that are used to evade taxes.

Jaffe was suspended after Cleveland Federal Judge John Manos, in a controversial decision, declared that the agent had obtained evidence illegally. Yet Internal Revenue's own inspectors cleared Jaffe of the same charges after an exhaustive, 18-month investigation. He was also cleared by a federal grand jury.

The tough Jaffe didn't take his suspension lying down. He fired off a sizzling, secret letter to his superiors on May 2, according to his lawyer, Jack Solwerwitz. "With its customary short sightedness," he wrote, "the IRS has taken action it will have cause to regret."

He predicted that the judge's "ruling will be reversed" and that "the IRS will wind up with egg on its face." Meanwhile, his gutless bosses, he charged, had made him a "sacrificial lamb."

In suspending Jaffe from the case, the IRS has abandoned one of its best investigators. He has received numerous commendations for his investigations of organized crime cases.

Judge Manos' decision came during the prosecution of Jack Payner, a reputed Ohio racketeer, who was the first Project Haven subject to be brought to court for falsely answering a bank account question on the tax forms. If the decision stands, it will jeopardize many pending Project Haven cases, since the same evidence has been used to nail other alleged tax evaders.

The evidence, consisting of a stolen Rolodex file and banking files, was obtained by Jaffe's informant, Norman Casper, who managed to get the names of the people who held secret accounts in the Castle Bank of the Bahamas.

CIRCUIT COURT

NEW MADRID — Sentences were assessed and probation granted in nine criminal cases Wednesday by Judge William L. Ragland in New Madrid County Circuit Court.

Clifford Warner of Marston was sentenced to two years in custody of the department of corrections, then granted probation under supervision when he pleaded guilty to a felonious assault charge. He was accused of felonious assault Jan. 14, 1976 upon Mildred Campbell by striking her about the throat with a butcher knife.

In a separate case charging Warner with burglary and stealing he was given consecutive two-year terms on each charge, which are to run concurrently with the prior sentence. Warner pleaded guilty to burglarizing the home of Joe Reeves in Marston on Jan. 6, 1976 and the theft of a gas stove valued at $400.

David Wayne Farrow of Jackson and William Lane Niswonger of Millersville pleaded guilty to possession of less than 35 grams of marijuana. Each was sentenced to one year in jail, which was suspended upon payment of $100 fine each and court costs.

Curtis Lee Young was sentenced to two years in custody of the department of corrections, then placed on probation with supervision when he pleaded guilty to feloniously stealing a citizens band radio on Nov. 4, 1976 valued at $159 that belonged to Floyce Maxwell Jr. of Portageville.

Clifton Farr of Howardville pleaded guilty to exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon -- a pistol -- on Feb. 5 in the presence of Ethel Thomas. He was sentenced to one year in jail, then placed on probation and allowed 30 days to pay court costs.

Jerry Brooks of Clarkton was granted probation with supervision after he was sentenced to two years in custody of the department of corrections on a felonious stealing charge. He was accused of stealing a citizens band radio valued at $125 on March 10 that belonged to Glen Creason of Risco.

Rodney Gordon of Gideon pleaded guilty to exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon -- a .22 caliber rifle -- on March 29 in the presence of Joel Coonts. He was sentenced to two years in custody of the department of corrections then granted probation with supervision.

Robert English of Portageville pleaded guilty to felonious assault and was sentenced to two years in custody of the department of corrections then granted probation without supervision. He was charged with assaulting DeWitt Mickles of Portageville on March 20 with a loaded pistol.

Wayne Tipton of Malden was granted probationwith supervision after being sentenced to two years in custody of the department of corrections when he pleaded guilty to receiving stolen property. Today's news in brief

Vote near on record budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — With House and Senate negotiators in agreement on a defense budget, Congress is preparing to vote on a financial blueprint that foresees spending of a record $460.9 billion for next fiscal year. Members of a House+Senate conference committee, ending three days of bargaining and intermittent deadlock, agreed Wednesday on the plan which calls for defense spending of $111 billion and a deficit of $64.6 billion.

Concorde foes vow to retaliate

NEW YORK (AP) — Angry neighbors of John F. Kennedy International Airport are vowing to close the facility twice a week in retaliation for a federal judge's order that the supersonic Concorde jet can't be banned from landing there. U.S. District Court Judge Milton Pollack ruled Wednesday that the Port Authority of Nez York and NXEW Jersey acted illegally in bann ng the supersonic Concorde during a 16-month trial period ordered by the federal government.

New suspect sought in slaying

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — a man who used $100 bills to light his cigars while buying rounds of drinks at a suburban tavern is being sought as the mastermind of the multimillion-dollar robbery and murder of a reclusive grocery heiress. Authorities say state murder charges and federal fugitive warrants have been issued for Howard Willard, 38, and a woman believed to be traveling with him, Marjorie Pollitt, 48 . They are thought to be en route to Daytona Beach, Fla. About $1.6 million was found in the possession of three persons already in custody in the case. Authorities say at least $1.4 million is still missing from the home of Marjorie Jackson, 66, who was found shot to death early Saturday.

Castro eyes Third World role

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fidel Castro would rather pursue the role of Third World leader, particularly in Africa, than normalize Cuban relations with the United States, according to U.S. intelligence analysts. While continuing to provide some low-key support for Latin American leftist guerrillas, the analysts said, Castro will focus much of his future effort in Africa.

NATO allies adopt proposal

LONDON (AP) — The NATO allies have adopted President Carter's proposal to put their defense ministers to work on plans for strengthening forces in Europe to meet the Soviet Union's new offensive strength. The 15-member North Atlantic Treaty Organization, wrapping up a two-day meeting Wednesday, said the defense chiefs will meet next week in Brussels, Belgium, for a three-day strategy session.

GOP energy proposal ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans are ready to counter President Carter's energy program with a major proposal of their own that seeks to increase U.S. energy production by lifting price controls from oil and natural gas. The GOP energy "alternative," expected to be backed by the Senate's Republican membership, would allow energy companies to reap larger profits on domestic energy production.

Vance meets with Juan Carlos

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance met with King Juan Carlos and other top Spanish leaders today to encourage their efforts to democratize Spain and bring the country into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It was Vance's first meeting with the Spanish monarch, who came to the throne 18 months ago after the death of dictator Francisco Franco.

Nuclear control plan refused

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifteen nations that export nuclear tools and technology refused to agree on a proposal to slow the spread of nuclear weapons, despite U.S., Soviet and British backing for the plan. Although members of the so-called "Nuclear Suppliers' Club," failed to reach an accord during last week's talks in London, they did agree to resume their quest for a unified policy next month.

Arabian pipeline explodes

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) — A mysterious explosion and fire at one of Saudi Arabia's largest oilfields forced the shutdown of a major pipeline but has been brought under control, officials said today.

A U.S. Embassy official said at least one person was killed and 26 to 30 were injured, some with serious burns.

He said the fatality was a Saudi foreman and that no Americans were believed to be injured.

Officials of the Arabian American Oil Co. (Aramco) said the fire in the Abqaiq oilfield, 35 miles from this city on the Persian Gulf, was contained within 12 hours after it was set off by an explosion Wednesday. It was being allowed to burn itself out, they said.

They said the Abqaiq field, which produces more than 800,-000 barrels a day, was shut down. But they said the fire was no longer a threat to a gas processing facility and a crude oil storage tank farm nearby.

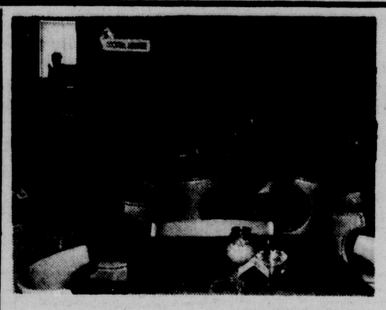

4th tornado victim dies

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A fourth person has died as a result injuries suffered when tornadoes roared through five Missouri counties May 4.

Thomas A. Stephenson, 55, Odessa, was found unconscious near his demolished trailer home the day of the tornadoes. He suffered chest injuries and a possible conctussion.

He died Wednesday at St. Luke's Hospital without regaining consciousness, officials said.

Three persons were killed when one of the tornadoes ripped through Pleasant Hill, about 25 miles southeast of Kansas City.

CIRCUIT COURT

NEW MADRID — Sentences were assessed and probation granted in nine criminal cases Wednesday by Judge William L. Ragland in New Madrid County Circuit Court.

Clifford Warner of Marston was sentenced to two years in custody of the department of corrections, then granted probation under supervision when he pleaded guilty to a felonious assault charge. He was accused of felonious assault Jan. 14, 1976 upon Mildred Campbell by striking her about the throat with a butcher knife.

In a separate case charging Warner with burglary and stealing he was given consecutive two-year terms on each charge, which are to run concurrently with the prior sentence. Warner pleaded guilty to burglarizing the home of Joe Reeves in Marston on Jan. 6, 1976 and the theft of a gas stove valued at $400.

David Wayne Farrow of Jackson and William Lane Niswonger of Millersville pleaded guilty to possession of less than 35 grams of marijuana. Each was sentenced to one year in jail, which was suspended upon payment of $100 fine each and court costs.

Curtis Lee Young was sentenced to two years in custody of the department of corrections, then placed on probation with supervision when he pleaded guilty to feloniously stealing a citizens band radio on Nov. 4, 1976 valued at $159 that belonged to Floyce Maxwell Jr. of Portageville.

Clifton Farr of Howardville pleaded guilty to exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon -- a pistol -- on Feb. 5 in the presence of Ethel Thomas. He was sentenced to one year in jail, then placed on probation and allowed 30 days to pay court costs.

Jerry Brooks of Clarkton was granted probation with supervision after he was sentenced to two years in custody of the department of corrections on a felonious stealing charge. He was accused of stealing a citizens band radio valued at $125 on March 10 that belonged to Glen Creason of Risco.

Rodney Gordon of Gideon pleaded guilty to exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon -- a .22 caliber rifle -- on March 29 in the presence of Joel Coonts. He was sentenced to two years in custody of the department of corrections then granted probation with supervision.

Robert English of Portageville pleaded guilty to felonious assault and was sentenced to two years in custody of the department of corrections then granted probation without supervision. He was charged with assaulting DeWitt Mickles of Portageville on March 20 with a loaded pistol.

Today's news in brief

Vote near on record budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — With House and Senate negotiators in agreement on a defense budget, Congress is preparing to vote on a financial blueprint that foresees spending of a record $460.9 billion for next fiscal year. Members of a House+Senate conference committee, ending three days of bargaining and intermittent deadlock, agreed Wednesday on the plan which calls for defense spending of $111 billion and a deficit of $64.6 billion.

Concorde foes vow to retaliate

NEW YORK (AP) — Angry neighbors of John F. Kennedy International Airport are vowing to close the facility twice a week in retaliation for a federal judge's order that the supersonic Concorde jet can't be banned from landing there. U.S. District Court Judge Milton Pollack ruled Wednesday that the Port Authority of Nez York and NXEW Jersey acted illegally in bann ng the supersonic Concorde during a 16-month trial period ordered by the federal government.

New suspect sought in slaying

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — a man who used $100 bills to light his cigars while buying rounds of drinks at a suburban tavern is being sought as the mastermind of the multimillion-dollar robbery and murder of a reclusive grocery heiress. Authorities say state murder charges and federal fugitive warrants have been issued for Howard Willard, 38, and a woman believed to be traveling with him, Marjorie Pollitt, 48 . They are thought to be en route to Daytona Beach, Fla. About $1.6 million was found in the possession of three persons already in custody in the case. Authorities say at least $1.4 million is still missing from the home of Marjorie Jackson, 66, who was found shot to death early Saturday.

Castro eyes Third World role

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fidel Castro would rather pursue the role of Third World leader, particularly in Africa, than normalize Cuban relations with the United States, according to U.S. intelligence analysts. While continuing to provide some low-key support for Latin American leftist guerrillas, the analysts said, Castro will focus much of his future effort in Africa.

NATO allies adopt proposal

LONDON (AP) — The NATO allies have adopted President Carter's proposal to put their defense ministers to work on plans for strengthening forces in Europe to meet the Soviet Union's new offensive strength. The 15-member North Atlantic Treaty Organization, wrapping up a two-day meeting Wednesday, said the defense chiefs will meet next week in Brussels, Belgium, for a three-day strategy session.

GOP energy proposal ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans are ready to counter President Carter's energy program with a major proposal of their own that seeks to increase U.S. energy production by lifting price controls from oil and natural gas. The GOP energy "alternative," expected to be backed by the Senate's Republican membership, would allow energy companies to reap larger profits on domestic energy production.

Vance meets with Juan Carlos

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance met with King Juan Carlos and other top Spanish leaders today to encourage their efforts to democratize Spain and bring the country into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It was Vance's first meeting with the Spanish monarch, who came to the throne 18 months ago after the death of dictator Francisco Franco.

Nuclear control plan refused

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifteen nations that export nuclear tools and technology refused to agree on a proposal to slow the spread of nuclear weapons, despite U.S., Soviet and British backing for the plan. Although members of the so-called "Nuclear Suppliers' Club," failed to reach an accord during last week's talks in London, they did agree to resume their quest for a unified policy next month.

Arabian pipeline explodes

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) — A mysterious explosion and fire at one of Saudi Arabia's largest oilfields forced the shutdown of a major pipeline but has been brought under control, officials said today.

A U.S. Embassy official said at least one person was killed and 26 to 30 were injured, some with serious burns.

He said the fatality was a Saudi foreman and that no Americans were believed to be injured.

Officials of the Arabian American Oil Co. (Aramco) said the fire in the Abqaiq oilfield, 35 miles from this city on the Persian Gulf, was contained within 12 hours after it was set off by an explosion Wednesday. It was being allowed to burn itself out, they said.

They said the Abqaiq field, which produces more than 800,-000 barrels a day, was shut down. But they said the fire was no longer a threat to a gas processing facility and a crude oil storage tank farm nearby.

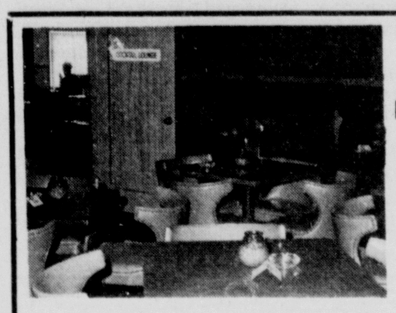

4th tornado victim dies

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A fourth person has died as a result injuries suffered when tornadoes roared through five Missouri counties May 4.

Thomas A. Stephenson, 55, Odessa, was found unconscious near his demolished trailer home the day of the tornadoes. He suffered chest injuries and a possible concussion.

He died Wednesday at St. Luke's Hospital without regaining consciousness, officials said.

Three persons were killed when one of the tornadoes ripped through Pleasant Hill, about 25 miles southeast of Kansas City.

4 charged in drug ring case

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Four persons have been charged in a federal complaint with operating a $30,000-a-month illicit drug ring from a Lincoln County, Mo., farmhouse, authorities said.

Those arrested were charged Tuesday with distributing 10,000 doses of LSD, a hallucinogen.

Armed with a search warrant, agents of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration and local authorities raided the farmhouse Monday night.

About 30,000 doses of LSD and one ounce of cocaine were confiscated at the farmhouse, they said, adding that the LSD had an estimated street value of $100,000.

Those charged were Mary Graf, 20, of Wentzville; James Kahre, 19, of St. Louis County; Robert Turner, 28, of Winfield, and David Keith French, 20, of Overland.

U.S. Magistrate David Noce set bond at $50,000 each for Miss Graf, Turner and French and $10,000 for Kahre.

The arrests came in the wake of a six-month investigation of the drug ring, authorities said.

Hospital may be declared bankrupt

HUMANSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — The beleaguered Polk Community Hospital, already plagued by a nursing walkout and a state-ordered shutdown, may soon be declared bankrupt.

A hearing has been scheduled for Thursday in U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Springfield concerning a suit seeking a bankruptcy ruling against the hospital.

Five hospital employes filed the suit April 28, charging they had not been paid in four months.

Hours after that, Charles Gillilan, director of hospital licensing, and two other members of the Missouri Division of Health ordered the facility closed because of inadequate coverage and other deficiencies.

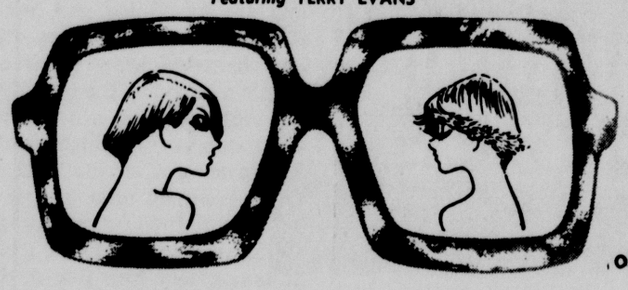

Six patients were sent home from the 48-year-old hospital after the nurses' action, according to Dr. Bernard Finch, while a nurse remained with one other overnight pending a transfer Wednesday.

Finch is one of three doctors on the staff at the 23-bed hospital, which serves 55,000 persons in Polk, Dade, Hickory and Dallas counties.

NOTE FROM THE EDITOR: Recently we received several requests to repeat the You Asked For It column regarding removal of mold and mildew from canvas tents. Today we repeat this article which appeared in the March 17 edition of the Daily Standard.

Mildew spots should be removed as soon as discovered.

If given a chance this may weaken or rot the material.

Be sure and take the canvas tent outside and brush off any of the surface that the growth is on. Why we say outside is because you will spread the mildew spores if done inside.

If any of the mildew spots remain, you may wash the washables with the following treatment or send nonwashables to the dry cleaners.

Wash the mildew area with soap or detergent and water. Rinse well and dry in sun.

If the stain remains, use bleach or lemon juice and salt. Be sure to test colored fabric for colorfastness to the bleach.

The lemon juice and salt theory goes like this. Wet the stain with the mixture and spread in the sun to bleach. Rinse well.

If you use chloring bleach, mix 2 tablespoons of the bleach to one quart of warm water. Sponge the stain in the solution and wait 5 to 15 minutes. Rinse thoroughly.

Thanks for writing in.

If you have questions about lawn, garden, car repair of minor home repair, write You Asked For It-Attention Jill Corti, Daily Standard, Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Ann Landers

Wife wants part-time job

Dear Ann: I had a very busy, successful career before I met my husband 14 years ago. He is the most wonderful and loving person in the world. I have never wanted for anything. From the outside my life looks perfect -- but I'm miserable.

Yesterday I told my husband I needed to get away from the club work, the lunches and the cocktails at noon with "the girls." I told him I wanted to work from 9-4, three days a week. He said, "I don't want my wife to work. It wouldn't look good."

Our two beautiful daughters are in school all day. I don't need the money, but I do need something stimulating to occupy my mind during the week. If I stay home, someone always calls and says, "Let's go out to lunch." Then it's two cocktails, and another -- and another. I've done it so many times, it's frightening.

How do I tell my husband I need to get away from the martini lunch routine, the gossips sand do something worthwhile? I would still volunteer one day a week, but a changeof social scenery would help me feel like a real person. -- Going Downhill

Dear G.D.: Does your husband know the true facts? If not, tell him the boredom is beginning to get to you. Ask him bluntly if he'd rather have a working wife or a lush. Don't let his ego destroy you. This is one battle you MUST win.

Dear Ann: I read with interest the letter from the struggling young dentist who complained about his "free-loading relatives." May I say something to that smart aleck?

Dear Struggling Young Dentist: When you were young, your relatives showered you with gifts and never stopped until you went away to college. Did you ever reciprocate? NO! You thought you had everything coming.

The people you call "free-loaders" are your own flesh and blood. When a dentist starts out to practice (same as a physician) he usually sits in his office doing nothing for several months -- or longer. You ought to be darn glad you can experiment on your relatives. Quit complaining. -- Kenosha, Wisconsin

Dear Kenosha: Now that's what I call a neat rebuttal. If any "struggling young dentists" care to respond, I'll print the best letter.

Dear Ann: I've read many of your comments about the rules of conversation but I still don't know how to handle this one.

We have many get-togethers with friends and relatives throughout the year. At every gathering the same people dominate the conversation, often repeating things we've heard too often.

No one wants to antagonize the offenders but is there any way to turn them off -- short of saying, "Shut up, will you please We already know what YOU think."

So far no one has been able to come up with a squelcher that works. How about a solution? -- Bent Ear In California

Dear Bent: Be direct, but pleasant. Sample: "Please-- let's let Harold tell us what he thinks abou such-and-so. We can listen to each other after he's gone."

Parents, what should you do if your teenager is having sexual relations? Ann Landers's new booklet, "High School Sex and How to Deal With It -- A Guide for Teens and Their Parents," give no-nonsense advice on how to handle this delicate situation. For each booklet, send 50 cents in coin plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY -- My brother carries his glasses in a case in his shirt pocket. When he leans over the glasses fall out. I took small pieces (about one inch) of Velcro and sewed them to the inside of the top of his glasses case. He now has a neat closure and no more falling glasses.

My pocketbook has two straps that were fastened in small holes on either side of the purse. After some use these straps pulled loose. I put some epoxy glue in each of the holes and also on the ends of the straps, reinserted them in the holes and let it set for several hours. The result is a pocketbook as good as new. — N.B.

'Things To Bring To Camp'

By Erma Bombeck

People are always saying there isn't anything funny in the world anymore. There's nothing to laugh at and everything is so serious.

What do they know?

The other afternoon, my son received a mimeographed sheet that was one of the funniest pieces of fiction I've ever read. The heading on it read, "THINGS TO BRING TO CAMP."

Mavbe if I were a new mother sending her son to camp for the first time, I could have taken it seriously, but I'm an older mother and I haven't had such a good laugh since my doctor told me to get off my feet for a few days in 1973.

How's this for humor?

Bring three pairs of shoes. (A kid who owns three pairs of shoes can only mean one thing. His gym shoes have come apart in three pieces.)

Stationery. In a waterproof container. (Preferably in a U.S. mailbox with a message written on it and stamped the day before he goes to camp. It's the only way you're going to hear from him.)

Soap: You never know when they might carve something out of it for crafts.

Flashlight for finding way to outdoor restroom: (Be prepared to have your child say on the last day of camp, "So that's where the bathroom is.")

Comb, toothbrush and other toiletries: If God had meant for children to premanently wrinkle, He'd never have made them drip dry.

Book for light reading. (You show me a kid reading a book at camp and I'll show you a kid with two broken legs and an X-rated combic book.)

Four changes of underwear (he didn't start life with that many).

Towels, two bath, one hand and a facecloth. (Label them towels as most campers do not recognize them.)

The trick to camping is to be "cool." Never act like you know what a pair of pajamas are, a raincoat and boots, a pillow or a bathing suit. (I know of one mother who sent hangers to camp with her son and he had to change his name).

I suppose there was a time when I was quite complete about filling in the forms. But all that has changed. Under Allergies, I listed showers, doing dishes, making beds and finding his way home from anywhere.

Under personality traits that may help the counselor, I listed one, "He thinks he's an only child."

Under parties to call in case of accident, I gave our number and then added, "Let it ring."

I've found the less visual a parent can be at camp, the better time the boy has. I'll never forget the day we drove 60 miles of dirty road in temperatures of 85 degrees, arriving just in time for the awards ceremony. I waved to my son who looked at us like he had never met us before. "Where are your parents?" asked the counselor.

Our eyes met in mutual amazement as he said, "They couldn't make it. They're too busy."

NOTE FROM THE EDITOR: Recently we received several requests to repeat the You Asked For It column regarding removal of mold and mildew from canvas tents. Today we repeat this article which appeared in the March 17 edition of the Daily Standard.

Mildew spots should be removed as soon as discovered.

If given a chance this may weaken or rot the material.

Be sure and take the canvas tent outside and brush off any of the surface that the growth is on. Why we say outside is because you will spread the mildew spores if done inside.

If any of the mildew spots remain, you may wash the washables with the following treatment or send nonwashables to the dry cleaners.

Wash the mildew area with soap or detergent and water. Rinse well and dry in sun.

If the stain remains, use bleach or lemon juice and salt. Be sure to test colored fabric for colorfastness to the bleach.

The lemon juice and salt theory goes like this. Wet the stain with the mixture and spread in the sun to bleach. Rinse well.

If you use chloring bleach, mix 2 tablespoons of the bleach to one quart of warm water. Sponge the stain in the solution and wait 5 to 15 minutes. Rinse thoroughly.

Thanks for writing in.

If you have questions about lawn, garden, car repair of minor home repair, write You Asked For It-Attention Jill Corti, Daily Standard, Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Ann Landers

Wife wants part-time job

Dear Ann: I had a very busy, successful career before I met my husband 14 years ago. He is the most wonderful and loving person in the world. I have never wanted for anything. From the outside my life looks perfect -- but I'm miserable.

Yesterday I told my husband I needed to get away from the club work, the lunches and the cocktails at noon with "the girls." I told him I wanted to work from 9-4, three days a week. He said, "I don't want my wife to work. It wouldn't look good."

Our two beautiful daughters are in school all day. I don't need the money, but I do need something stimulating to occupy my mind during the week. If I stay home, someone always calls and says, "Let's go out to lunch." Then it's two cocktails, and another -- and another. I've done it so many times, it's frightening.

How do I tell my husband I need to get away from the martini lunch routine, the gossips sand do something worthwhile? I would still volunteer one day a week, but a changeof social scenery would help me feel like a real person. -- Going Downhill

Dear G.D.: Does your husband know the true facts? If not, tell him the boredom is beginning to get to you. Ask him bluntly if he'd rather have a working wife or a lush. Don't let his ego destroy you. This is one battle you MUST win.

Dear Ann: I read with interest the letter from the struggling young dentist who complained about his "free-loading relatives." May I say something to that smart aleck?

Dear Struggling Young Dentist: When you were young, your relatives showered you with gifts and never stopped until you went away to college. Did you ever reciprocate? NO! You thought you had everything coming.

The people you call "free-loaders" are your own flesh and blood. When a dentist starts out to practice (same as a physician) he usually sits in his office doing nothing for several months -- or longer. You ought to be darn glad you can experiment on your relatives. Quit complaining. -- Kenosha, Wisconsin

Dear Kenosha: Now that's what I call a neat rebuttal. If any "struggling young dentists" care to respond, I'll print the best letter.

Dear Ann: I've read many of your comments about the rules of conversation but I still don't know how to handle this one.

We have many get-togethers with friends and relatives throughout the year. At every gathering the same people dominate the conversation, often repeating things we've heard too often.

No one wants to antagonize the offenders but is there any way to turn them off -- short of saying, "Shut up, will you please We already know what YOU think."

So far no one has been able to come up with a squelcher that works. How about a solution? -- Bent Ear In California

Dear Bent: Be direct, but pleasant. Sample: "Please--let's let Harold tell us what he thinks abou such-and-so. We can listen to each other after he's gone."

Parents, what should you do if your teenager is having sexual relations? Ann Landers's new booklet, "High School Sex and How to Deal With It -- A Guide for Teens and Their Parents," give no-nonsense advice on how to handle this delicate situation. For each booklet, send 50 cents in coin plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Anderson still not satisfied

ST. LOUIS (AP) — It might have been reasonable to expect euphoria among the Cincinnati Reds following their second successive triumph.

The Reds downed the St. Louis Cardinals by 5-1 with 12 hits Wednesday night, but bliss was not a part of Manager Sparky Anderson's mind.

"We're not getting any mileage out of our hits," complained Anderson, who was as intent for the moment on finding fault as any efficiency expert. "We're getting a lot of hits, but we're not getting the runs."

Anderson's pique, the victory and key hits by Pete Rose and Johnny Bench notwithstanding, stemmed from two Cincinnati threats that fizzled during an unsuccessful bid to break open the game.

A bases-loaded opportunity was wasted in the fourth inning when Ken Griffey, following Bench's pivotal ground-rule double, bounced into a double play after two runs were scored.

An inning later, after Joe Morgan singled and raced to third on George Foster's hit, the Reds again came up barehanded when Bench duplicated Griffey's misdeed.

Anderson, while overlooking the occasions when Cincinnati did deliver to meet with his satisfaction, lashed out angrily by noting that "if you're a major leaguer you've got a job to do and that's get the runner in.

"Every time you've got a runner on third base with less than two out — I don't care what anybody else says — you have got to score," he said.

"We are just going up there swinging wildly instead of getting a ball to hit," Anderson charged. "That's been our biggest problem more than anything. You look at a guy hitting .340. That doesn't mean anything unless he's doing something to score runs."

The multiplicity of Reds sins having been enumerated, those innocent were pitchers Jack Billingham, 4-2, and Mike Caldwell, who combined to minimize 11 St. Louis hits.

Billingham was pinned into a bases-loaded jam in the seventh, but Caldwell extricated his teammate by inducing pinch-hitter Mike Anderson to hit into a twin killing en route to his first save.

In sharp contrast to his Cincinnati counterpart, Cards Manager Vern Rapp reflected philosophically on the 13 base runners his team stranded compared with the Reds' six.

"You walk away from a game like that and you feel that you have done everything you could," said Rapp, who chose to forgive his club's absence of meaningful hits.

"You can't play at a .700 pace all year when the competition in the league is as good as it is," Rapp shrugged. "We had opportunities. We just haven't been driving in runs. You can't always be productive."

Fergie has learned lesson

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Oakland's Mitchell Page is making American League pitchers rewrite the book.

And as far as Boston pitcher Ferguson Jenkins is concerned, you can include the A's Wayne Gross and Earl Williams.

"I went to slow stuff in the fifth inning," said Jenkins, "but by then it was too late."

Jenkins gave up only five hits, but three were home runs by Page, Gross and Williams as Oakland downed the Red Sox 3-1 Wednesday.

"I threw a hard slider to Page, fastballs to the other two guys," Jenkins said. "Next time, I'll throw them nothing but slop."

Gross has nine home runs this season, second best in the American League, while Page is tied for third with eight. Williams' was his seventh.

Doc Medich, 2-2, went the distance for the victory. Boston's only run was unearned as Carlton Fisk, who had three hits, doubled home Jim Rice, who had reached base on an error.

In other AL games Wednesday, Cleveland clipped Milwaukee 4-3, Detroit stopped Minnesoto 8-3, the Chicago White Sox nipped Texas 4-3 in 10 innings, Seattle defeated the Yankees 5-2 and California blanked Baltimore 6-0.

Indians 4, Brewers 3

Paul Dade's sacrifice fly scored Frank Duffy from third and lifted Cleveland to its third straight victory over Milwaukee. Wayne Garland, a free agent who signed a 10-year, $2.3 million contract with the Indians, scattered eight hits in eight innings, including a homer to Von Joshua, in winning his first game of the season after four losses.

Tigers 8, Twins 3

Rookies Phil Mankowski and Mark Wagner led off the fourth inning with consecutive homers, sending Zahn to the showers. Ben Oglivie and Milt May also homered in the Tigers' 12-hit attack.

Mariners 5, Yankees 2

Enrique Romo tossed 2 2-3 innings of shutout relief as Seattle snapped a seven-game losing streak and downed the New York Yankees. Both Yankee runs came on Reggie Jackson's fifth homer of the season in the first inning.

The Mariners used two bloop hits and an error by loser Ken Holtzman to score their runs.

Turner takes over with same ending

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Turner, the flamboyant 38-year-old yachtsman and broadcasting executive who owns the Atlanta Braves, decided he needed a close-up look at what was wrong with his team, which had lost 16 games in a row. So Wednesday he told Bristol, his manager, to take a 10-day vacation, and donned the manager's cap himself.

There was no noticeable effect — the Braves lost No. 17, 2-1 to Pittsburgh.

"It seemed like I had done all I could, sitting up in the stands," explained Turner, who doesn't have a baseball background and is leaving all strategy matters to coaches Vern Benson and Chris Cannizzaro. "I wanted to see what it's like down in the trenches."

From those trenches he got an eyeful of Dave Parker, the slugging Pirates outfielder who is tearing up the National League. Parker had two hits, including his sixth home run of the season in the third inning which snapped a 1-1 tie.

Parker now has hit safely in 22 consecutive games and is batting .437 — both major league highs. And the Pirates have won 11 in a row, the longest streak in the majors.

Bristol, meanwhile, was "taken aback" by Turner's move.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Montreal Expos 5-1, the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 4-2, the Cincinnati Reds defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 5-1, the Houston Astros whipped the Chicago Cubs 8-2 and the San Diego Padres swept a twi-night doubleheader from the New York Mets 6-3 and 4-3.

The Braves almost sent their game into extra innings, but a long hit by Darrel Chaney in the ninth inning, which would have scored the trying run from first base, bounced over the wall for a ground-rule double, forcing pinch-runner Pat Rockett to stop at third. Reliever Rich Gossage then retired Rowland Office, ending the game.

Reds 5, Cards 1

Dave Concepcion had two singles, drove in one run, scored one and stole three bases, leading Cincinnati past St. Louis. Jack Billingham got the victory, with relief from ex-Cardinal Mike Caldwell.

Giants 4, Phillies 2

Bill Madlock's two-run homer in the fourth inning snapped a 1-1 tie for the Giants. Lynn McGlothen, 2-3, got the victory with a six-hitter.

10-run frame wins for Devils

SCOTT CITY — The Chaffee Red Devils rallied for ten big runs in the top of the seventh inning to blow a 2-2 pitcher's duel wide open and claimed the District 12 Class 1-A Championship game against Illmo-Scott City 12-2. Winning pitcher, with a five-hitter, was righty Lindy Duncan. The victory allows Chaffee to advance to the 1-A Regional Tournament at Leadwood May 20 with a record of 16-6.

Tony Dalton's two-run homer highlighted the big ten-run frame for coach Mike Payne's troops. Dalton and Duncan had two hits each. Centerfielder Scott Wacther ripped out three safeties.

Anderson still not satisfied

ST. LOUIS (AP) — It might have been reasonable to expect euphoria among the Cincinnati Reds following their second successive triumph.

The Reds downed the St. Louis Cardinals by 5-1 with 12 hits Wednesday night, but bliss was not a part of Manager Sparky Anderson's mind.

"We're not getting any mileage out of our hits," complained Anderson, who was as intent for the moment on finding fault as any efficiency expert. "We're getting a lot of hits, but we're not getting the runs."

Anderson's pique, the victory and key hits by Pete Rose and Johnny Bench notwithstanding, stemmed from two Cincinnati threats that fizzled during an unsuccessful bid to break open the game.

A bases-loaded opportunity was wasted in the fourth inning when Ken Griffey, following Bench's pivotal ground-rule double, bounced into a double play after two runs were scored.

An inning later, after Joe Morgan singled and raced to third on George Foster's hit, the Reds again came up barehanded when Bench duplicated Griffey's misdeed.

Anderson, while overlooking the occasions when Cincinnati did deliver to meet with his satisfaction, lashed out angrily by noting that "if you're a major leaguer you've got a job to do and that's get the runner in.

"Every time you've got a runner on third base with less than two out — I don't care what anybody else says — you have got to score," he said.

"We are just going up there swinging wildly instead of getting a ball to hit," Anderson charged. "That's been our biggest problem more than anything. You look at a guy hitting .340. That doesn't mean anything unless he's doing something to score runs."

The multiplicity of Reds sins having been enumerated, those innocent were pitchers Jack Billingham, 4-2, and Mike Caldwell, who combined to minimize 11 St. Louis hits.

Billingham was pinned into a bases-loaded jam in the seventh, but Caldwell extricated his teammate by inducing pinch-hitter Mike Anderson to hit into a twin killing en route to his first save.

In sharp contrast to his Cincinnati counterpart, Cards Manager Vern Rapp reflected philosophically on the 13 base runners his team stranded compared with the Reds' six.

"You walk away from a game like that and you feel that you have done everything you could," said Rapp, who chose to forgive his club's absence of meaningful hits.

"You can't play at a .700 pace all year when the competition in the league is as good as it is," Rapp shrugged. "We had opportunities. We just haven't been driving in runs. You can't always be productive."

Fergie has learned lesson

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Oakland's Mitchell Page is making American League pitchers rewrite the book.

And as far as Boston pitcher Ferguson Jenkins is concerned, you can include the A's Wayne Gross and Earl Williams.

"I went to slow stuff in the fifth inning," said Jenkins, "but by then it was too late."

Jenkins gave up only five hits, but three were home runs by Page, Gross and Williams as Oakland downed the Red Sox 3-1 Wednesday.

"I threw a hard slider to Page, fastballs to the other two guys," Jenkins said. "Next time, I'll throw them nothing but slop."

Gross has nine home runs this season, second best in the American League, while Page is tied for third with eight. Williams' was his seventh.

Doc Medich, 2-2, went the distance for the victory. Boston's only run was unearned as Carlton Fisk, who had three hits, doubled home Jim Rice, who had reached base on an error.

In other AL games Wednesday, Cleveland clipped Milwaukee 4-3, Detroit stopped Minnesoto 8-3, the Chicago White Sox nipped Texas 4-3 in 10 innings, Seattle defeated the Yankees 5-2 and California blanked Baltimore 6-0.

Indians 4, Brewers 3

Paul Dade's sacrifice fly scored Frank Duffy from third and lifted Cleveland to its third straight victory over Milwaukee. Wayne Garland, a free agent who signed a 10-year, $2.3 million contract with the Indians, scattered eight hits in eight innings, including a homer to Von Joshua, in winning his first game of the season after four losses.

Tigers 8, Twins 3

Rookies Phil Mankowski and Mark Wagner led off the fourth inning with consecutive homers, sending Zahn to the showers. Ben Oglivie and Milt May also homered in the Tigers' 12-hit attack.

Mariners 5, Yankees 2

Enrique Romo tossed 2 2-3 innings of shutout relief as Seattle snapped a seven-game losing streak and downed the New York Yankees. Both Yankee runs came on Reggie Jackson's fifth homer of the season in the first inning.

The Mariners used two bloop hits and an error by loser Ken Holtzman to score their runs.

Turner takes over with same ending

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Turner, the flamboyant 38-year-old yachtsman and broadcasting executive who owns the Atlanta Braves, decided he needed a close-up look at what was wrong with his team, which had lost 16 games in a row. So Wednesday he told Bristol, his manager, to take a 10-day vacation, and donned the manager's cap himself.

There was no noticeable effect — the Braves lost No. 17, 2-1 to Pittsburgh.

"It seemed like I had done all I could, sitting up in the stands," explained Turner, who doesn't have a baseball background and is leaving all strategy matters to coaches Vern Benson and Chris Cannizzaro. "I wanted to see what it's like down in the trenches."

From those trenches he got an eyeful of Dave Parker, the slugging Pirates outfielder who is tearing up the National League. Parker had two hits, including his sixth home run of the season in the third inning which snapped a 1-1 tie.

Parker now has hit safely in 22 consecutive games and is batting .437 — both major league highs. And the Pirates have won 11 in a row, the longest streak in the majors.

Bristol, meanwhile, was "taken aback" by Turner's move.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Montreal Expos 5-1, the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 4-2, the Cincinnati Reds defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 5-1, the Houston Astros whipped the Chicago Cubs 8-2 and the San Diego Padres swept a twi-night doubleheader from the New York Mets 6-3 and 4-3.

The Braves almost sent their game into extra innings, but a long hit by Darrel Chaney in the ninth inning, which would have scored the trying run from first base, bounced over the wall for a ground-rule double, forcing pinch-runner Pat Rockett to stop at third. Reliever Rich Gossage then retired Rowland Office, ending the game.

Reds 5, Cards 1

Dave Concepcion had two singles, drove in one run, scored one and stole three bases, leading Cincinnati past St. Louis. Jack Billingham got the victory, with relief from ex-Cardinal Mike Caldwell.

Giants 4, Phillies 2

Bill Madlock's two-run homer in the fourth inning snapped a 1-1 tie for the Giants. Lynn McGlothen, 2-3, got the victory with a six-hitter.

10-run frame wins for Devils

SCOTT CITY — The Chaffee Red Devils rallied for ten big runs in the top of the seventh inning to blow a 2-2 pitcher's duel wide open and claimed the District 12 Class 1-A Championship game against Illmo-Scott City 12-2. Winning pitcher, with a five-hitter, was righty Lindy Duncan. The victory allows Chaffee to advance to the 1-A Regional Tournament at Leadwood May 20 with a record of 16-6.

Tony Dalton's two-run homer highlighted the big ten-run frame for coach Mike Payne's troops. Dalton and Duncan had two hits each. Centerfielder Scott Wacther ripped out three safeties.

Rockets make big turnaround

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets guard John Lucas sat in front of his dressing cubicle exhausted, but with a look of deep satisfaction etched on his face.

"It was unreal, but I just knew if I could get back to familiar surroundings I would play well and so would the team," Lucas said Wednesday night after directing the Rockets to a 118-94 victory over Philadelphia in their National Basketball Association playoff series.

Cricitized for his inability to control the tempo in two previous losses to the 76ers, Lucas had his hand on the pulse of the game all the way Wednesday as the Rockets narrowed Philadelphia's lead to 2-1 in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference championship series.

"Tonight we could dictate a little more what was happening," said Lucas, a rookie from the University of Maryland. "When you get the lead, you can have something to say about what to do."

The Rockets got a big early lead, zooming ahead 21-8 with 5:39 left in the opening quarter, and it was Lucas who led the surge, hitting 10 points in the first period.

Lucas hit a driving shot for the first two points of the game and the Rockets were in the lead all the way as they throttled the 76ers' running game.

"We didn't do anything different, we just played our game," Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke said. "We were able to keep Mo (Moses Malone) and Kevin (Kunnert) in there for a while. Usually Kunnert will wind up with five fouls and we have to get him out."

But this time Kunnert didn't get into foul trouble, and in fact, played a key role in keeping the 76ers from getting their fast break going.

"Kunnert was hitting that little short jump shot over the middle and C.J. (Caldwell Jones) was having to go over and guard him," 76ers forward George McGinnis said. "That keeps us from getting the fast break going."

The Rockets led 33-20 by the end of the first quarter and expanded the margin to 59-41 by halftime.

Philadelphia made one run at the Rockets, outscoring Houston 15-3 in the first four minutes of the third quarter. Then Calvin Murphy hit two striahgt baskets, Malone scored on a dunk and two free throws, and the Rockets again were out of trouble.

Malone was the dominant force in the game for the Rockets, scoring 30 points and grabbing 25 rebounds. Malone was silent after the game, refusing a newsman's handshake and saying only he didn't want to talk.

"We were just not shooting well," a disappointed Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue said. "We were not aggressive. They have a much better team effort. The wide spread and the rebounding in the first half was significant.

"When we can't do anything with the boards, it cuts off the main part of our game."

Julius Erving led the 76ers with 28 points. Rudy Tomjanovich had 24 points and Lucas finished with 20 for Houston.

Semo pitchers post good ERA's

Looking at Southeast Missouri athletes in professional baseball: Gideon's Mark Littel had a good week for the Royals, lowering his ERA to 2.15, all in relief. He had no decisions this week and has fanned 20 batters in 17 innings pitched.

Steve Coulson, from Fisk, was just one-for-11 this past week, lowering his average over 40 points to .214. Coulson is playing on the 2-A level for the Yankee's West Haven club.

In his second outing Galen McSpadden of Puxico picked up a loss while pitching for the Padres Amarillo club. His record is 1-1 now, with a sparkling 1.20 ERA for 15 innings of pitching. McSpadden has 14 strikeouts and only four walks.

Information on Coulson and McSpadden was provided The Daily Standard by Player Periscope, a service for the media out of Novato, Calif.

Special Olympics next week

LEONARD WOOD, Mo. — Preparation for the 1977 Missouri Special Olympics, which will run May 19-21, is nearing completion at Fort Leonard Wood. Open to the public without charge the Olympics will include two full days of athletic competition and social activities. With the lighting of the Special Olympic Torch at 7 p.m. at Gerlach Field on May 19, the events will officially begin. Competition in track and field, swimming, gymnastics, bowling and team sports will be staged at Gerlach Field and other Post facilities. Sports events include several games which are tailored specificly for the multiply handicapped. During the competition, the anticipated 3500 Special Olympians will be housed in an Olympic Village of troop barracks on post. In addition to sports activities, the Olympians and their chaperones will be feted at a no-host invitational buffet on May 19 at 5:30 p.m. and at two dances on Friday evening May 20 in the 3rd Brigade Bymnasium and Nutter Field House.

O'Donnell throws two-hitter

VANDUSER — The Vanduser Comets improved their league mark to 2-1 by blanking the New Hamburg Blues 2-0 on Rick O'Donnell's two-hitter.

Vanduser scored both runs in the first on Jim Emerson's inside-the-park homer, a walk to Keith Campbell and a double by Basil Mays. Otto Kern, who only allowed four hits, was tagged with the loss.

Eagles close in on title

ORAN — Kerry Lasters cleared the bases with a triple in the final inning to give the Oran Eagles a come-from-behind 9-8 victory over Delta and keep their lead in the S-MC baseball race. Oran has a record of 9-2 in league games, one ahead of both I-SC and Chaffee on the loss side.

Bill Senciboy picked up the victory for Oran. Senciboy also ripped a two-run homer in the fifth that helped Oran fight back from a 5-1 deficit.

The two sides were tied 6-6 going into the seventh, but Delta crossed the plate twice. A solo homer by Monty Shaffer starting the inninning cut the lead in half and the next two batters walked. Laster's triple cleaned the bases and gave him three hits for the day.

Norton beats Bobick in 58 seconds

NEW YORK (AP) — Like a tornado striking a Kansas farm house, it was over in 58 seconds.

A man in the red-cushioned $50 ringside seats reached down to pick up his hat. A lady in a long white gown turned to speak to a mustachioed man behind her. Another man reached in his pocket for change to buy a beer.

They blew the fight completely. NBC-TV set an all-time record for reruns. The midnight show came on an hour early.

Tall, hard-hitting Ken Norton gets another shot at Muhammed Ali — his fourth. They're already booked — contracts signed and in the safe — for a title fight in Rio de Janeiro in September.

It's appropriate. The end of the season's reruns on the big tube. Will fight fans stand still for a fourth Ali-Norton fight for millions of dollars?

Tune in next September.

And young Duane Bobick, boxing's new "Goden Boy," the handsome ex-Olympian who came up from the cow country of Bowlus, Minn., almost destroyed in a first-round knockout after 38 straight victories — what of him?

"He is young and strong. You haven't heard the last of Duane Bobick," Norton said graciously afterward.

The polite farm boy with the shock of curly copper hair is too good to lose so early. He seems a foreigner to his craft — modest, pleasant, soft-speaking, without bombast.

He took a terrible right hand shot to the throat early in the battle. Water welled in his eyes. He couldn't see. He became a helpless target of Norton's slashing, relentless fists — a vicious blow to the stomach, a right to the head, right, left, right, left.

Blood spewed from Bobick's handsome features and he crumbled. At the count of nine he rose on rubbery lege, his face a dazed mask of bruises and blood. Referee Patty Della stopped it.

It was quick and merciful. Bobick had been brought along too quickly. He was a young bear thrown into the arena with a roaring lion.

Bobick's voice was so raspy, from the blow to the throat, that he could barely be understood. He had no alibis.

"I start slow, I didn't have a chance to get loose," he explained. "He came out barreling to get me."

Somebody asked him what he remembered about the fight.

"There wasn't much to remember," he replied, giving the smartest appraisal of the bitter night.

Another reporter suggested that maybe the fight proved what some had charged, that Bobick's victories were over setups. Could this bout have proved it?

"There must have been one live body in the bunch," he answered.

How would he describe his disappointment?

"Shucks," he said.

Norton, who already has been guaranteed $2.25 million to fight Ali in Brazil this fall, was a gracious victor.

He said he was surprised that Bobick hadn't applied more pressure — it was almost as if the kid was frozen.

"You haven't seen the last of Bobick," he warned.

Dr. Justin Wernick of New Collete of Podiatric Medicine shows fighter Ken Norton the plaster mold that was made of this foot in a New York gym previous to his demolition last night of Duane Bobick. The mold was taken to fit Norton for a new pair of shoes to wear during that fight. (AP Wirephoto)

Lakers try to avoid being swept

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — During the regular National Basketball Association season, Portland's Bill Walton was the meanest kid on the "block" — blocking an average of 3.25 shots per game. He also led the league in rebounds with a 14.4 average.

But the Los Angeles Lakers' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has outblocked the 6-foot-11 Walton so far in the team's semifinal playoff series, blocking a total of 11 in two games, compared to Walton's six.

Neither of the two UCLA alumni rejected a shot in the first game, but in the next two, Abdul-Jabbar blocked three and eight and Walton four and two.

Not that it has made much difference. The Blazers have won all three games — the first two on Los Angeles' home court.

A victory in Friday night's fourth game would eliminate the Lakers and put the Blazers in the NBA final series, against either Philadelphia or Houston.

Stewart signs 4-year contract

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Norm Stewart, who needs just 21 more victories to becme the winningest basketball coach at the University of Missouri, should have plenty of time to get them.

The Tiger boss became only the second Missouri coach to receive a multi-year contract when the university bestowed a four-year contract on him Wednesday.

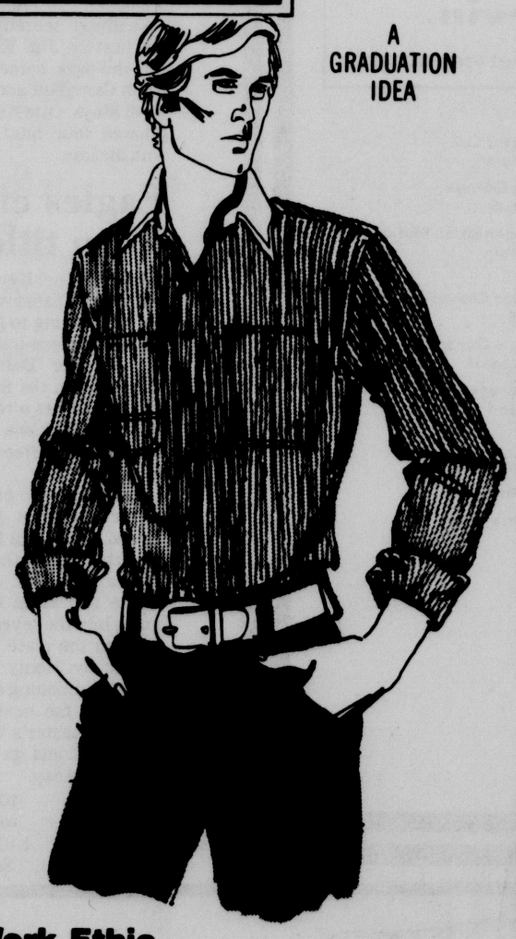

Stewart, 42, Tiger basketball coach the past 10 years, was given an unspecified but "significant increase in salary" in the contract that takes effect next fall.

Stewart's teams have won 175 games and lost 96 in the last decade, finishing at 21-8 and a tie for second place in the Big Eight Conference last season.

Lakers try to avoid being swept

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — During the regular National Basketball Association season, Portland's Bill Walton was the meanest kid on the "block" — blocking an average of 3.25 shots per game. He also led the league in rebounds with a 14.4 average.

But the Los Angeles Lakers' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has outblocked the 6-foot-11 Walton so far in the team's semifinal playoff series, blocking a total of 11 in two games, compared to Walton's six.

Neither of the two UCLA alumni rejected a shot in the first game, but in the next two, Abdul-Jabbar blocked three and eight and Walton four and two.

Not that it has made much difference. The Blazers have won all three games — the first two on Los Angeles' home court.

A victory in Friday night's fourth game would eliminate the Lakers and put the Blazers in the NBA final series, against either Philadelphia or Houston.

Stewart signs 4-year contract

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Norm Stewart, who needs just 21 more victories to becme the winningest basketball coach at the University of Missouri, should have plenty of time to get them.

The Tiger boss became only the second Missouri coach to receive a multi-year contract when the university bestowed a four-year contract on him Wednesday.

Stewart, 42, Tiger basketball coach the past 10 years, was given an unspecified but "significant increase in salary" in the contract that takes effect next fall.

Stewart's teams have won 175 games and lost 95 in the last decade, finishing at 21-8 and a tie for second place in the Big Eight Conference last season.

Rangers-Royals to start round 3

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals and the Texas Rangers open a four-game series here tonight in what may best be described as Round Three.

The Royals and Rangers have scuffled in both previous series this season, the last of which resulted in fines for 10 members of the American League squads.

Nobody is sure if the antagonism between Kansas City and Texas will flare once more into open battle. But everyone admits the situation is tense.

"You never know," said Whitey Herzog, manager of the Royals "I can't be surprised because of all those statements guys like Horton, Ellis and Corrales have made saying they're going to get Porter."

Both teams were left bitter by a 20-minute fight last Saturday night in Texas that resulted in two Royals and five Rangers being ejected from the game.

The brawl began when Kansas City catcher Darrell Porter and Texas second baseman Bump Wills exchanged words, then blows, following a rundown involving Wills at third base.

Royals third baseman George Brett has been sidelined since then with an elbow injury and designated hitter Hal McRae has complained of bruises.

Porter was also involved in an April 27 fracas that began when Texas hurler Bert Blyleven struck him with a pitch. Blyleven fanned the flames by later admitting the action was intentional, which resulted in a $500 fine and a three-day suspension.

After last weekend's brawl, the Rangers' Willie Horton openly challenged Porter to an off-field meeting, teammate John Ellis took credit for injuring Brett and members of the Texas squad watched a replay of the fight, cheering at various intervals.

Fined Wednesday by the American League were Porter and John Mayberry of the Royals, and Manager Frank Lucchesi, Coach Pat Corrales, Jim Fregosi, Roger Moret, Claudell Washington, Juan Beniquez, Horton and Ellis of the Rangers.

Lee McPhail, AL president, warned both teams that fines and suspensions would result if there was more violence.

"As far as the Royals are concerned, it's all over and forgotten," stated Kansas City

Oran beats Benton, wins tourney

ORAN — Oran defeated Benton 6-4 in a Semo Fastpitch League game Wednesday night here behind the hitting of Hank Dirnberger and hurling of Gary Owens. Dirnberger had three hits for the winners.

Last weekend Oran won the Memphis Cotton Carnival Tournament over 20 other teams from six states. They opened with a 4-1 win over the Memphis Food Brokers, then edged Rena's of St. Louis 6-5. A 10-win over the Memphis Travelers was next, followed by an 11-3 decision over Columbus, O., and a 4-2 championship decision over the Travelers.

John Watkins was honored as the tourney's best pitcher. Don Metz was MVP and best hitter. Hank Dirnberger made the all-tournament team.

'King' comes to Oran May 19

The King and His Court 4-man softball team will play a group of Semo Fastpitch League All-Stars in Oran Thursday, May 19. Starting time for the game is 8:30 p.m.

Some of the All-Stars will be: Don Metz, John Watkins, Mark Amick and Don Robert.

The game is sponsored by the Semo Fastpitch League and the Cape Civic center. Admission will be charged.

Wild animals are not good pets

The National Wildlife Federation publication cautions youngsters — and their parents — to resist the temptation to adopt wild creatures, even if they appear to have been abandoned by their mothers.

There are dangers for both young animals and young foster "parents," the children's nature magazine advises. First, there is the likelihood that wildlife babies will die in captivity — unless they get more care and attention than most people can give. Then there is the possibility, even if they survive, that their wild nature will prevail. Result: They become dangerous and destructive.

For example, a baby raccoon grew up to be a treacherous vandal indoors and had to exist in a cage. It could not survive in the wild because its instincts had not been nurtured by its mother. Also, a cuddly bobcat became a biter and when full grown had to be de-clawed and its eye teeth pulled in order to stay with the family that took it in.

A little animal alone in the woods does not mean that the mother has deserted it. She could be watching from a hiding place or away searching for food or water.

Some animal mothers will kill their young or reject them once they've been handled and picked up a human's scent.

In addition to needing their mother's special milk and attention only a natural mother can give, wildlife babies can develop ravenous appetites and grow too large for cages. A young bear, for example, can eat twice as much as a large dog. And zoos do not want young wild animals because they already have all they can handle.

Just finding a wildlife baby could jeopardize the person. Mother bears, deer, elk, and moose often will attack a human trying only to pet or help their young.

Wild animals rarely become as domesticated as dogs or cats. Many carry such parasites as lice, fleas, and ticks, which can lead to serious illness for humans as well as the naimal.

Steward Steel wins big, 15-0

Steward Steel scored 12 runs in the second inning enroute to a 15-0 thrashing of the Bank of Sikeston in SFPSL action Wednesday night. Winning pitcher Vernie Dean allowed just one hit, Melvin Tabor's double, and two walks while posting the five-inning whitewash.

Best led Steward's hitting with a 2-for-4 evening.

Tonight a pair of attractive matchups amke the schedule at the complex. The first game pits Merchants against Purkey's. In the nightcap Steward Steel comes back against Security National Bank.

Suit threatened unless smoking policy rescinded

HUME, Mo. (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union is threatening to sue the Hume school board unless it rescinds its controversial smoking policy.

This tiny western Missouri community made news last fall when two students caught smoking were given the choice of eating them or taking a paddling. They chose to eat them and both got sick.

The ACLU agreed to represent one of the boy's mothers.

Arthur Benson II, litigation counsel for the ACLU in Kansas City, said Tuesday he had sent a letter to Kenneth Clark, school board president, requesting an end to such punishment and pay medical expenses for the students.

Benson said he would file suit seeking abolition of the punishment and damages for the boys and their parents if the school board did not answer his request by June 1.

SeMo Hospital opposes proposed ceiling on costs

CAPE GIRARDEAU— Southeast Missouri Hospital here has joined a long list of hospitals which are expressing opposition to federal legislation which would place a ceiling at nine per cent on rising hospital costs.

James W. Wente, assistant administrator, has outlined in a letter to Sen. John Danforth, R-Missouri, reasons for opposing President Jimmy Carter's proposed ceiling contained in the Hospital Cost Containment Act of 1977 which has been submitted to Congress.

"We have no choice but to oppose this legislation because it proposes in a dry simplistic way to control costs within our industry without providing any limitations on the materials, supplies, and labor we must purchase in the open market," Wente stated.

Wente argues that the proposed formula contains an item called the "implicit price deflator" which is measured on a broad scale and is inadequate for measuring any one segment of the economy such as health care.

According to Wente, among the factors which affect hospital costs are: Labor, energy, petroleum, drugs and pharmaceuticals, insurance, equipment replacement, medical and clerical supplies, and interest rates.

"Unless the impact of the lack of corresponding controls on each of the items listed ... is not considered, the 'bottom line' will be a cutback in hospital services with the result that the sick and injured will be penalized."

Wente lists a number of procedures adopted by the hospital to cut costs. Among them are group purchasing, budgetary planning, revised method for accumulating patient charges, delegation as a PSRO hospital, involvement in the regional health planning agency, and work with St. Francis Medical Center to avoid duplicating services.

"Our audited 1976 financial statements reveal a total cost increase over 1975 of 9.03 per cent as compared to reports of the industry as a whole averaging 15 per cedntt," Wente said.

"Our community and overall service area is growing and it depends on its hospitals for health needs. We will be unable to meet these needs should this type of narrow-sighted program be allowed to carry the title of 'federal law' " he stated.

Concluding, Wente said, "The administration's plan to limit reimbursement to hospitals will only result in jeopardizing the right to life which the sick and injured ask for."

Stephens gets grant to fund solar heat unit

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Stephens College has received a federal grant to fund solar heating for a planned visitors center on the college campus in Columbia, it was announced Tuesday.

Stephens is the first college in Missouri to receive funds from the U.S. Energy and Research and Development Administration for a commercial solar heated building, according to the Stephens director of grants, Edmund Ciaglia.

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., notified President Arland F. Christ-Janer of the $93,457 grant Tuesday.

The four-story building will include admissions offices, a faculty lounge and rooms for guests of the college. It will enclose 13,900 square feet of space.

The roof of the building composed of 180 glass panels will be slanted to the south at a 50 degree angle to collect solar radiation. Heat will be transferred to water by copper tubing containing a solution of anti-freeze and water located beneath the collectors and coiled inside a 5,000-gallon water tank. The hot water will be pumped through pipes throughout the building to maintain a thermostatically-controlled temperature.

The sun will provide about 70 per cent of the building's heat with a gas-fired boiler providing the remainder.

Funds totaling $400,000 were donated to the university for construction of the visitors center building.

Grant for public transportation system awarded

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Mid-Missouri Council of Governments has received a $200,000 grant from the Federal Highway Administration to operate a public transportation system in central Missouri, it was announced today.

The system will establish commuter services between Jefferson City, Columbia and Fulton before and after working hours. During the day, the specially equipped buses will enter rural areas to provide residents access to urban areas.

The grant will be used to purchase and operate four 36-passenger buses equipped with radios and wheelchair lifts. An estimated 42,000 passengers will be carried during the second year of the project, according to state transportation officials.

A record total of 28,422 aces was reported to the Golf Digest Hole-In-One Clearing House ir 1976.

Suit threatened unless smoking policy rescinded

HUME, Mo. (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union is threatening to sue the Hume school board unless it rescinds its controversial smoking policy.

This tiny western Missouri community made news last fall when two students caught smoking were given the choice of eating them or taking a paddling. They chose to eat them and both got sick.

Arthur Benson II, litigation counsel for the ACLU in Kansas City, said Tuesday he had sent a letter to Kenneth Clark, school board president, requesting an end to such punishment and pay medical expenses for the students.

Benson said he would file suit seeking abolition of the punishment and damages for the boys and their parents if the school board did not answer his request by June 1.

SeMo Hospital opposes proposed ceiling on costs

CAPE GIRARDEAU—Southeast Missouri Hospital here has joined a long list of hospitals which are expressing opposition to federal legislation which would place a ceiling at nine per cent on rising hospital costs.

James W. Wente, assistant administrator, has outlined in a letter to Sen. John Danforth, R-Missouri, reasons for opposing President Jimmy Carter's proposed ceiling contained in the Hospital Cost Containment Act of 1977 which has been submitted to Congress.

"We have no choice but to oppose this legislation because it proposes in a dry simplistic way to control costs within our industry without providing any limitations on the materials, supplies, and labor we must purchase in the open market," Wente stated.

Wente argues that the proposed formula contains an item called the "implicit price deflator" which is measured on a broad scale and is inadequate for measuring any one segment of the economy such as health care.

According to Wente, among the factors which affect hospital costs are: Labor, energy, petroleum, drugs and pharmaceuticals, insurance, equipment replacement, medical and clerical supplies, and interest rates.

"Unless the impact of the lack of corresponding controls on each of the items listed ... is not considered, the 'bottom line' will be a cutback in hospital services with the result that the sick and injured will be penalized."

Wente lists a number of procedures adopted by the hospital to cut costs. Among them are group purchasing, budgetary planning, revised method for accumulating patient charges, delegation as a PSRO hospital, involvement in the regional health planning agency, and work with St. Francis Medical Center to avoid duplicating services.

"Our audited 1976 financial statements reveal a total cost increase over 1975 of 9.03 per cent as compared to reports of the industry as a whole averaging 15 per cednt," Wente said.

"Our community and overall service area is growing and it depends on its hospitals for health needs. We will be unable to meet these needs should this type of narrow-sighted program be allowed to carry the title of 'federal law' " he stated.

Concluding, Wente said, "The administration's plan to limit reimbursement to hospitals will only result in jeopardizing the right to life which the sick and injured ask for."

High blood pressure is silent killer

CAPE GIRARDEAU— The Missouri Heart Association is stalking the "Silent Killer" — high blood pressure.

And indications are that the association is making points in its battle against a disease which, if left untreated, is a leading cause of heart disease, kidney disease and stroke.

Dr. C. R. Talbert Jr., a cardiologist here and president of the Missouri Heart Association, and Dr. Tom Meriwether, a Memphis cardiologist, addressed about 160 persons attending a seminar on hypertension here Thursday, agreeing that screening is vital identifying those afflicted with high blood pressure.

May is National Hypertension Month, and although the Heart Association and other agencies that at least deal in part with the problem are promoting public education about hypertension, 300,000 people will still die this year from diseases in which high blood pressure was a potent contributor.

Twenty-three million Americans — one out of seven — have high blood pressure. Statistics have shown that if you're black, over 50, taking birth control pills or pregnant, chances of having it are even greater.

Hypertension is most often asymptomatic — that is, most people have no symptoms of the disease. "With few symptoms, the main way we can pick up persons with hypertension is through random screening," explained Dr. Meriwether, who is also affiliated with Baptist Memorial Hospital.

"High blood pressure is generally not curable; it is controllable," he said. High blood pressure can be traced to a specific disease or condition in only a small percentage — less than 10 per cent — of patients. When the offending condition is cured, sometimes through surgery, the hypertension often disappears, too. But the majority of persons have "primary" high blood pressure, a condition that does not seem to be related to any other disease.

The profile of a person likely to get high blood pressure can not be specifically drawn, Dr. Talbert said. Heredity and obesity do play a role, though, and the disease is more likely to show up when a person is in his 40s. Men are more often affected than women.

Screening efforts are now being directed toward teenagers as well as older adults, Dr. Talbert said, emphasizing that education in the home about proper diet and the like, is a step in the right direction toward making conditions for hypertension less ideal.

"I think we can safely say that high blood pressure is controllable in about 99 per cent of the cases." The idea that high blood pressure can not be controlled is a fallacy, he emphasized.

"Normally, the controlled hypertensive has no more risk of heart attack than any other person," Dr. Meriwether added.

Emotional tension by itself does not cause high blood pressure, the physicians said. Sudden rage can raise pressure, although generally on a temporary basis. Longterm stress can play a role, though.

"Studies have emphasized the hypertensive has the inability to unload stress; he does not ventilate his feelings," Dr. Talbert said. Generally, that type person can not relax easily, and has poor sleep habits. Women, he said, tend to have fewer complications from hypertension, possibly because they are better able to ventilate feelings.

Weight and dietary control and good physical condition are important factors in control of hypertension. Dr. Talbert said he noted the average American eats five to six grams of salt per day, while the ideal is only two to three grams. Reduction of sodium (salt) may also help reduce high blood pressure.

Certain foods— pickles, olives, cured meats, fish products, potato chips and the like — are "loaded with salt," Dr. Talbert said. "Children should be taught to eat without so much salt," he advised.

There are various opportunities for blood pressure screening here. The Heart Association offers free screening at the annual SeMo District Fair, and pressure checks are made available regularly at other locations, including the Nutrition Center and a bank. However, Dr. Talbert said he would "like to see more businesses get involved on a public service basis" in providing screening sites and the like.

"Screening and compliance by taking required medication regularly are vital," Dr. Meriwether emphasized. "If a person doesn't have his pressure checked, he may not know it's high. Not until we see him in the coronary care unit."

Jobless payments decrease

JEFFERSON CITY — Fewer significant new layoffs and more industrial recalls caused decreases in both initial and continued unemployment insurance claims in April.

Joseph E. Dietrich, director of the Missouri Division of Employment Security, said today that claimants totaled about 80,618 persons, the fewest since November 1976.

Claims from the auto industry declined 67 percent from March. Construction claims dropped 45 percent.

Dietrich said total benefit payments, at $19,015,838, were decreased by 29.5 percent. The average weekly benefit amount was $68.23.

To convert nautical miles to statute miles, multiply by 1.1516.

There are 206 bones in the human body and 32 permanent teeth.

The all-time record for a hole-in-one by a male golfer is 93. For a woman it's 81.

"HEALTH TIPS"

Before you endure hours of discomfort, baking in the hot sun, you should know that the healthful effects of a suntan are almost nil. In fact, excessive exposure to sun permanently damages the skin and leads to premature aging, wrinkling, a leathery texture, and can cause a cancerous condition of the skin. A quality suntan lotion reduces sun damage, as does limited exposure to the sun.

K.C. travel agency declared in default

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Hundreds of Kansas City residents have places to go but no way to get there since the sudden closing of a large area travel service.

Sun World Travel shut its doors last week after the Air Traffic Conference in Washington ordered all airline ticket stock and validation plates removed from its offices. The action prevents Sun World from dealing with scheduled carriers.

The ATC is an arm of the Air Transport Association, which monitors dealings between travel agents and scheduled air carriers.

Sun World has been declared in default by the ATC and the company has 30 days in which to satisfy its debts in order to reopen, said Darlene Dolan, an ATC official. She said the ATC was also beginning an audit of Sun World's books.

The travel agency is owned by Paul S. Christie and Marilyn J. Christie, Blue Springs.

The Better Business Bureau in Kansas City reported Tuesday it had received almost 100 complaints from persons who had paid up to $4,500 for vacation tour packages. Sun World was the area's third largest travel agency.

"This closing has created an unprecedented problem in an industry that has not generally been a problem industry," said Ray Buckley of the BBB. "This is the biggest blowup in the bureau's history."

The U.S. attorney's office here said it would investigate the matter to see if federal laws had been violated.

The ATC took action against the travel agency after Sun World could not make good on a check to the ATC. Travel wholesalers had recently complained that Sun World's checks to them had also bounced.

The Kansas City Star reported that Sun World had been spending large amounts of money on advertising, yet had fallen behind last year in payments. The newspaper recently refused to accept further advertising from the agency.

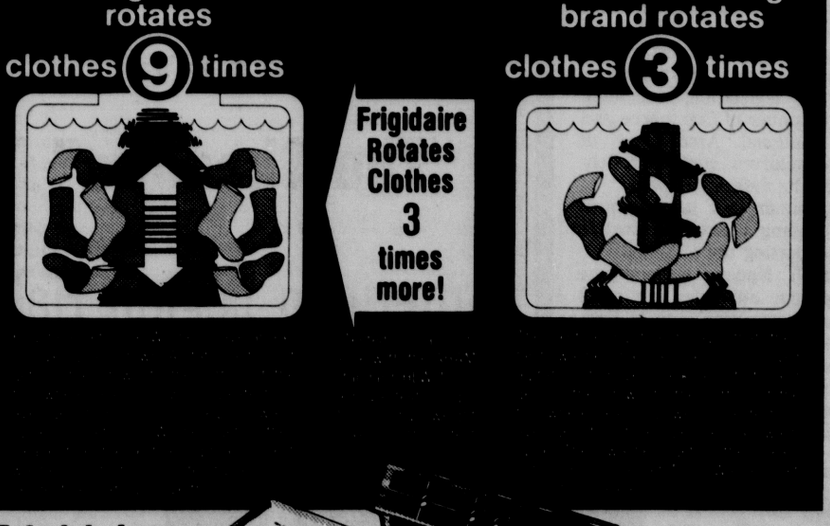

Area travel agents, members of the American Society of Travel Agents were trying to help persons who had made payments to Sun World. The ASTA said much of the money was protected, having been forwarded by the agency to wholesalers of travel tours.

Before you endure hours of discomfort, baking in the hot sun, you should know that the healthful effects of a suntan are almost nil. In fact, excessive exposure to sun permanently damages the skin and leads to premature aging, wrinkling, a leathery texture, and can cause a cancerous condition of the skin. A quality suntan lotion reduces sun damage, as does limited exposure to the sun.

K.C. travel agency declared in default

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Hundreds of Kansas City residents have places to go but no way to get there since the sudden closing of a large area travel service.

Sun World Travel shut its doors last week after the Air Traffic Conference in Washington ordered all airline ticket stock and validation plates removed from its offices. The action prevents Sun World from dealing with scheduled carriers.

The ATC is an arm of the Air Transport Association, which monitors dealings between travel agents and scheduled air carriers.

Sun World has been declared in default by the ATC and the company has 30 days in which to satisfy its debts in order to reopen, said Darlene Dolan, an ATC official. She said the ATC was also beginning an audit of Sun World's books.

The travel agency is owned by Paul S. Christie and Marilyn J. Christie, Blue Springs.

The Better Business Bureau in Kansas City reported Tuesday it had received almost 100 complaints from persons who had paid up to $4,500 for vacation tour packages. Sun World was the area's third largest travel agency.

"This closing has created an unprecedented problem in an industry that has not generally been a problem industry," said Ray Buckley of the BBB. "This is the biggest blowup in the bureau's history."

The U.S. attorney's office here said it would investigate the matter to see if federal laws had been violated.

The ATC took action against the travel agency after Sun World could not make good on a check to the ATC. Travel wholesalers had recently complained that Sun World's checks to them had also bounced.

The Kansas City Star reported that Sun World had been spending large amounts of money on advertising, yet had fallen behind last year in payments. The newspaper recently refused to accept further advertising from the agency.

Area travel agents, members of the American Society of Travel Agents were trying to help persons who had made payments to Sun World. The ASTA said much of the money was protected, having been forwarded by the agency to wholesalers of travel tours.

Trades class to host open house Sunday

EAST PRAIRIE — The senior high school building trades class will host an open house from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday at it's student-built home in the Van Marshall Addition.

The three- bedroom home features 1,500 square feet of living space, is fully carpeted, has two baths, utility room, one-car carport and a kitchen-family room area. Heat and air-conditioning are provided by a heat pump.

Two classes of students in building trades constructed the home this school year under the direction of Terry Nall.

The R-2 Board of Education are now accepting bids on the home, which has been landscaped.

Kelley denies plans to run for K.C. mayor post

KANSAS CITY (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley says he does not plan to run for mayor of Kansas City when he retires at the end of the year.

"I am aware that some of my friends have suggested that I run for mayor of Kansas City in 1979. I will not lend encouragement to such an endeavor nor participate in any manner to further it while I am director of the FBI," Kelley said in a statement released by his Washington office in response to a report that he was being urged to return to Kansas City and run for mayor.

The former Kansas City police chief said his plans are to practice law in Kansas City and Washington. "Other possibilities are being considered but they do not include any active campaign to run for any public office," he said.

What's the law?

The case of the sopped spouse

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Alvin operated on the theory that the safest way to avoid a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip was to drink straight from the bottle. A chronic alcoholic, he also found it a great time-saver.

When he wandered into a fancy club, however, the maitre de insisted that he drink from a glass like everybody else. Unfortunately, having been sopping it up for some time prior thereto, there was no reasoning with Alvin. He was so soused that to look him straight in the eye required looking at him cross-eyed.

The result? The maitre de called the police and Alvin was arrested on charges of public intoxication.

"He was so bombed," the judge was told, "he couldn't even lie on the ground without holding on."

"All that may be true," responded Alvin's lawyer in court, "but, Alvin never intended to break the law. Nor did he intend to get drunk in public. The fact is he's an alcoholic and you can't send a man to jail for that."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you jail Alvin for being pickled in public?

This is how the judge ruled: NO. The judge held that chronic alcoholism is considered a disease and to jail someone for having a disease would be cruel and inhuman punishment in violation of the eighth amendment of the United States Constitution. However, noted the judge, this is not to say that an alcoholic may not be detained for treatment or rehabilitation.

Consumer agency bill appears in trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to establish a federal consumer protection agency is in trouble despite committee approval in both the House and Senate.

In the Senate, the Governmental Affairs Committee sent the bill to the floor by 10-2 vote on Tuesday. The House Government Operations Committee approved the measure, 22-21.

The legislation would establish a new agency to take the side of consumers before federal regulatory agencies.

Proponents say the agency is needed because consumers usually are not represented in such proceedings. Opponents say the measure will only create a new federal bureaucracy that is unneeded.

Supporters were predicting only last month that strong backing by the Carter administration would enable the bill to sail through Congress. In a demonstration of administration support, Vice President Walter F. Mondale sought backing for the bill in telephone calls to House committee members shortly before they voted.

But the narrow margin in the committee was viewed by supporters and opponents as an indication of the bill's uncertain future.

"I think this vote illustrates that opposition continues to grow," said Jeffrey Joseph of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

"People are being educated and are more sensitive to the problems that would be raised by this agency."

House committee Chairman Jack Brooks, D-Tex., said, "After this vote, I think there will be no rush to get floor action. If we delay, we might be able to pick up support."

The same committee approved the bill 30-10 in the last Congress, but there has been considerable turnover in the panel since then and four Democratic holdover members who once supported the bill have changed their minds.

Business groups that are longtime foes of consumer agency legislation, including the Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers, continue to lobby for its defeat this year.

Consumer and labor groups are joining the administration in supporting the bill.

Ralph Nader, a long-time supporter, attributed the close House committee vote to business lobbying. He said the opponents have concentrated their lobbying efforts in the House, where support is believed weaker than in the Senate.

Oklahoma 1st to enact execution by lethal drug

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma has become the first state in the nation to provide for execution of condemned criminals by a lethal drug.

Legislative action on the bill was completed late Tuesday and was signed by Gov. David Boren.

The bill is similar to one passed by the Texas legislature last week.

The law provides that persons convicted of capital crimes would be put to death through a continuous, intravenous administration of a lethal quantity of an ultra-short acting barbiturate.

It provides for electrocutions or death by firing squads in case the courts invalidate the death-by-drug method.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, May 12, the 132nd day of 1977. There are 233 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1949, the Soviets announced that the 328-day blockade of land routes to isolated West Berlin had been lifted.

On this date:

In 1774, the Boston Committee of Correspondence proposed that the American Colonies suspend trade with Britain.

In 1820, the English woman who founded modern nursing, Florence Nightingale, was born in Florence, Italy.

In 1932, the body of the kidnaped infant son of Charles and Mrs. Lindbergh was found in a wooded area in Hopewell, N.J.

In 1943, the World War II Battle of North Africa ended with the German surrender of Cape Bon in Tunisia.

In 1965, West Germany and Israel established diplomatic relations.

In 1971, the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art announced it had paid $5.5 million for a painting by the Spanish artist, Velazquez.

Ten years ago: Venezuela announced it had intercepted a landing force of guerrillas led by Cuban army officers.

Five years ago: Eighty-three people perished in the collision of a British refrigerator ship and a Liberian tanker off Argentina.

One year ago: Islamic nations convened in Istanbul, Turkey, to discuss the Palestinian and Cypriot problems.

Today's birthdays: Yankee baseball Coach Yogi Berra is 52 years old. Composer Burt Bacharach is 48.

Thought for today: "A man must have a lot of money to enable him to dress as well as his wife does." — Anonymous.

New country music show auditioning new talent

By TONY PIPPEN

If you think you're a pretty good singer or musician and would like to try your luck on stage, now's your chance.

Sikeston has a weekly country music show designed primarily to promote local talent and provide family entertainment.

The show, still in its infancy, will eventually feature four staff bands, with each working one night a month, presenting the program for that night and backing entertainers who don't have their own bands. The show is presented each Friday night at the Sikeston Community Center and runs from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Frank Estes, manager of Jack Frost Catalog House, and Bill Newman, employe at Superior Business Machines, started the show with the intention of eventually making Sikeston a country music center for the upper Bootheel area.

Newman, who has been playing music professionally for 25 years, is leader of the band that helped get the show started and still provides the bulk of the entertainment each week. Other members of the band are Wallace Hosey, who plays rythm guitar; Gene Hosey, bass and banjo; Pat Hosey, electric piano; Joyce Hosey Wells, Rythm guitar; and Ricky Washburn, drums.

Estes, whose daughter, Terisa also writes songs, became interested in country music about a year ago after meeting Newman and listening to him play at the Bootheel Jamboree in Bernie. Several people from the Sikeston area were attending country music shows on Saturday nights at both Essex and Bernie, but there was nothing in Sikeston, so Newman and Estes decided to offer family entertainment here on Friday night, without interfering with the shows in the other communities.

Newman began his musical career in Newport, Ark., where he started playing with Freddie Hart. He has also played guitar for Porter Waggoner, Mel Street and Carl Perkins. He has also worked shows with Conway Twitty, Kenny Price and Dave Dudley.

He has a record out on the Rimrock label called "Nashville Girl", written by his brother, Jimmy Newman. Joyce Wells also has a record that is being played on radio stations throughout the area called "My Life Inspiration." The flip side is "The Last Time." Both songs were written by Billy Newman.

Estes and Newman are looking for new talent and will audition anyone interested in trying out for the show. They are interested in singers, musicians and comedians. They hope to have at least three singers at each performance, in addition to the staff band and its singers. Call either after 5 p.m. for auditions. Newman's phone number is 471-6706. Estes' number is 471-7857.

Other bands will also be booked on the show from time to time. "The Good Times" of Sikeston will appear May 20 and "The Country Boys" of Charleston will perform May 27.

Public Notices

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the Regional Administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has under review an application submitted by the Board of Municipal Utilities of Sikeston, Missouri, wherein the applicant has requested that the agency grant approval for construction of a new electric generating plant.

The proposed 235-megawatt, coal-fired generating unit will be constructed in the City of Sikeston on property presently owned by the Board of Municipal Utilities.

The application has been reviewed by the agency in accordance with the procedures outlined in the federally established prevention of significant deterioration (PSD) regulations. The subject regulations are codified in the Code of Federal Regulations as 40 CFR 52.21 and require that the owner and- or operator of affected facilities obtain the previously-mentioned approval to construct prior to the commencement of construction related activities.

Before a PSD preconstruction approval may be granted by the EPA Regional Administrator, the applicant must show that the following basic conditions will be met:

1. Operation of the proposed facility will not cause ambient sulfur dioxide (SO2) or particulate matter concentrations to increase by an amount greater than the applicable PSD deterioration increments; and

2. That said pollutants will be controlled to a degree which will represent the application of best available control technology.

The applicant, as of this date, has not developed detailed plans and specifications for air pollution control equipment for the proposed facility. Thus, the degree of control cannot be determined. However, since the applicant has stated the intention to meet all applicable requirements, the Regional Administrator proposed to grant a conditional approval to construct. This approval would be subject to the EPA's approval at a later date of the emission control systems to be used.

A copy of the Regional Administrator's preliminary review is available for public inspection at the offices of the Board of Municipal Utilities, 138 North Prairie Street, Sikeston, Missouri 63801; and at the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, Division of Environmental Quality, 2010 Missouri Boulevard, Jefferson City, Missouri 65101. The original review materials are also available for public inspection during normal business hours at the office of the EPA, Region VII, 1735 Baltimore, Kansas City, Missouri 64108.

The EPA Regional Administrator invites written comments from all interested parties. Comments will be accepted May 12, 1977, through June 10, 1977.

A final determination to approve, to approve with conditions, or to disapprove the application will be made pursuant to a complete review of all relevant comments. Comments should be sent to Patrick K. Monahan, Director, Air and Hazardous Materials Division, EPA, Region VII, 1735 Baltimore, Kansas City, Missouri 64108.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF TEACHING VACANCIES

Pursuant to Board of Education Policy, the Sikeston Public Schools lists the following teaching and-or supervisory vacancies for the ensuing school year (1977-78):+

Position — No. of Vacancies

1. Adult Basic Education Coordinator — 1
2. Secondary Art Teacher — 1
3. Health Occupations Instructor — 1
4. Secondary Vocational Building Trades Instructor — 1

Qualified applicants should call or write the Board of Education Office, 1002 Virginia, Sikeston, Missouri 63801, phone 314-471-4454, for an application form which must be completed by each applicant seeking a position.

Written applications from teachers properly certified for each position will be accepted by this district from the period of May 12, 1977, through May 25, 1977. Applications postmarked after May 25, 1977, will not be processed.

Personal interviews will not be scheduled until after all applications have been evaluated and then by written invitation only. Applicants selected for personal interviews will be notified on or before May 30, 1977.

Additional information concerning screening procedures and interviews will accompany each request for an application form.

Additional teaching positions which result from increased enrollment and-or vacancies resulting from resignations received and accepted after April 30, and for the remainder of the current school year will be filled by persons whose applications were submitted during the previously announced period, April 15, 1977, to April 30, 1977, and the enrollment period state above, May 12, 1977, to May 25, 1977, provided that qualified persons from these groups are available when needed. In the event that vacancies occur in teaching areas (other than those listed above) for which no certified applicants are available, the Board of Education will announce the vacancy and repeat enrollment, screening and interview procedures similar to the process outlined above. Unless otherwise notified, all applications received during this enrollment period will be kept on file at the Board of Education Office until on or about April 15, 1978, at which time said applications will be deemed invalid.

+The Board of Education may, after further study, elect not to fill one or more of the above listed vacancies.

New country music show auditioning new talent

By TONY PIPPEN

If you think you're a pretty good singer or musician and would like to try your luck on stage, now's your chance.

Sikeston has a weekly country music show designed primarily to promote local talent and provide family entertainment.

The show, still in its infancy, will eventually feature four staff bands, with each working one night a month, presenting the program for that night and backing entertainers who don't have their own bands. The show is presented each Friday night at the Sikeston Community Center and runs from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Frank Estes, manager of Jack Frost Catalog House, and Bill Newman, employe at Superior Business Machines, started the show with the intention of eventually making Sikeston a country music center for the upper Bootheel area.

Newman, who has been playing music professionally for 25 years, is leader of the band that helped get the show started and still provides the bulk of the entertainment each week. Other members of the band are Wallace Hosey, who plays rythm guitar; Gene Hosey, bass and banjo; Pat Hosey, electric piano; Joyce Hosey Wells, Rythm guitar; and Ricky Washburn, drums.

Estes, whose daughter, Terisa also writes songs, became interested in country music about a year ago after meeting Newman and listening to him play at the Bootheel Jamboree in Bernie. Several people from the Sikeston area were attending country music shows on Saturday nights at both Essex and Bernie, but there was nothing in Sikeston, so Newman and Estes decided to offer family entertainment here on Friday night, without interfering with the shows in the other communities.

Newman began his musical career in Newport, Ark., where he started playing with Freddie Hart. He has also played guitar for Porter Waggoner, Mel Street and Carl Perkins. He has also worked shows with Conway Twitty, Kenny Price and Dave Dudley.

He has a record out on the Rimrock label called "Nashville Girl", written by his brother, Jimmy Newman. Joyce Wells also has a record that is being played on radio stations throughout the area called "My Life Inspiration." The flip side is "The Last Time." Both songs were written by Billy Newman.

Estes and Newman are looking for new talent and will audition anyone interested in trying out for the show. They are interested in singers, musicians and comedians. They hope to have at least three singers at each performance, in addition to the staff band and its singers. Call either after 5 p.m. for auditions. Newman's phone number is 471-6706. Estes' number is 471-7857.

Other bands will also be booked on the show from time to time. "The Good Times" of Sikeston will appear May 20 and "The Country Boys" of Charleston will perform May 27.

Public Notices

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the Regional Administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has under review an application submitted by the Board of Municipal Utilities of Sikeston, Missouri, wherein the applicant has requested that the agency grant approval for construction of a new electric generating plant.

The proposed 235-megawatt, coal-fired generating unit will be constructed in the City of Sikeston on property presently owned by the Board of Municipal Utilities.

The application has been reviewed by the agency in accordance with the procedures outlined in the federally established prevention of significant deterioration (PSD) regulations. The subject regulations are codified in the Code of Federal Regulations as 40 CFR 52.21 and require that the owner and- or operator of affected facilities obtain the previously-mentioned approval to construct prior to the commencement of construction related activities.

Before a PSD preconstruction approval may be granted by the EPA Regional Administrator, the applicant must show that the following basic conditions will be met:

1. Operation of the proposed facility will not cause ambient sulfur dioxide (SO2) or particulate matter concentrations to increase by an amount greater than the applicable PSD deterioration increments; and

2. That said pollutants will be controlled to a degree which will represent the application of best available control technology.

The applicant, as of this date, has not developed detailed plans and specifications for air pollution control equipment for the proposed facility. Thus, the degree of control cannot be determined. However, since the applicant has stated the intention to meet all applicable requirements, the Regional Administrator proposed to grant a conditional approval to construct. This approval would be subject to the EPA's approval at a later date of the emission control systems to be used.

A copy of the Regional Administrator's preliminary review is available for public inspection at the offices of the Board of Municipal Utilities, 138 North Prairie Street, Sikeston, Missouri 63801; and at the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, Division of Environmental Quality, 2010 Missouri Boulevard, Jefferson City, Missouri 65101. The original review materials are also available for public inspection during normal business hours at the office of the EPA, Region VII, 1735 Baltimore, Kansas City, Missouri 64108.

The EPA Regional Administrator invites written comments from all interested parties. Comments will be accepted May 12, 1977, through June 10, 1977.

A final determination to approve, to approve with conditions, or to disapprove the application will be made pursuant to a complete review of all relevant comments. Comments should be sent to Patrick K. Monahan, Director, Air and Hazardous Materials Division, EPA, Region VII, 1735 Baltimore, Kansas City, Missouri 64108.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF TEACHING VACANCIES

Pursuant to Board of Education Policy, the Sikeston Public Schools lists the following teaching and-or supervisory vacancies for the ensuing school year (1977-78): +

Position — No. of Vacancies

1. Adult Basic Education Coordinator — 1
2. Secondary Art Teacher — 1
3. Health Occupations Instructor — 1
4. Secondary Vocational Building Trades Instructor — 1

Qualified applicants should call or write the Board of Education Office, 1002 Virginia, Sikeston, Missouri 63801, phone 314-471-4454, for an application form which must be completed by each applicant seeking a position.

Written applications from teachers properly certified for each position will be accepted by this district from the period of May 12, 1977, through May 25, 1977. Applications postmarked after May 25, 1977, will not be processed.

Personal interviews will not be scheduled until after all applications have been evaluated and then by written invitation only. Applicants selected for personal interviews will be notified on or before May 30, 1977.

Additional information concerning screening procedures and interviews will accompany each request for an application form.

Additional teaching positions which result from increased enrollment and-or vacancies resulting from resignations received and accepted after April 30, and for the remainder of the current school year will be filled by persons whose applications were submitted during the previously announced period, April 15, 1977, to April 30, 1977, and the enrollment period state above, May 12, 1977, to May 25, 1977, provided that qualified persons from these groups are available when needed. In the event that vacancies occur in teaching areas (other than those listed above) for which no certified applicants are available, the Board of Education will announce the vacancy and repeat enrollment, screening and interview procedures similar to the process outlined above. Unless otherwise notified, all applications received during this enrollment period will be kept on file at the Board of Education Office until on or about April 15, 1978, at which time said applications will be deemed invalid.

+The Board of Education may, after further study, elect not to fill one or more of the above listed vacancies.

SIKESTON PUBLIC SCHOOL INVITES YOU TO THE OPEN HOUSE

711 Aspen Trace 2 blocks south of Jr. High
SATURDAY, MAY 14- 10 am to 5 pm
SUNDAY, MAY 15- 1 pm to 5 pm

The Sikeston Area Vocational School proudly displays a home constructed by the students enrolled in Vocational Building Trades. These students, under the direction of Mr. Wayne Land, are to be commended for the fine work done in making this brick veneer home a reality.

The program, taught as a two year course, begins with students entering the junior year of high school.
In addition to gaining on the job experience through the actual construction of a home, many hours are spent in the classroom studying building details.

SIKESTON PUBLIC SCHOOL INVITES YOU TO THE OPEN HOUSE

711 Aspen Trace 2 blocks south of Jr. High
SATURDAY, MAY 14- 10 am to 5 pm
SUNDAY, MAY 15- 1 pm to 5 pm

The Sikeston Area Vocational School proudly displays a home constructed by the students enrolled in Vocational Building Trades. These students, under the direction of Mr. Wayne Land, are to be commended for the fine work done in making this brick veneer home a reality.

In addition to gaining on the job experience through the actual construction of a home, many hours are spent in the classroom studying building details.

Hayti group charges discrimination

HAYTI — A petition of grievances charging discriminatory practices in the hiring of teachers, disciplinary matters and curricular material, and urging one principal be fired will be presented to the Hayti School Board tonight by a group of black parents and citizens.

The Hayti Concerned Parents and Citizens Committee, led by Mrs. Lucy Mae Woods, has gathered about 400 signatures to a petition charging racial discrimination.

The petition outlines a number of problems in the school system, as seen by the group, and offers solutions. Among the charges are that black students receive an excessive amount of the disciplinary actions, that the school board has no affirmative action hiring and recruitment policy for teachers and administrators, that black history and culture "are not presented to students in a positive way" and that parents are not allowed to observe daily classroom operation.

The group also charges the principal of Hayti Junior High School, Raymond Inman, is "incapable of respectful and intelligent communication with parents of the black community and incapable of administering the school in a manner beneficial to the students." The group recommends Inman be fired.

The Hayti school system is currently under investigation by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's office for civil rights. HEW officials in Kansas City refused to comment on the case, except to say that a report will be issued in June.

Mrs. Woods, who has two children in Hayti junior high school, said committee members "cannot hold out much longer. Something has got to be done."

An eight-track tape player worth $30 was stolen from a car belonging to Susan Gail Huitt, Route AA, according to the Public Safety Department.

The theft occurred between 5 p.m. and 5:15 p.m. while the car was parked at Kingsway Mall. The player was under the passenger seat when it was taken.

CB radio taken in Dexter

The vehicle was not locked at the time, police said today.

Bird incident revives memories of "Birds'

ANDERSON, Calif. (AP) — It was a nightmarish scene plucked from the chilling movie "The Birds" — thousands of twittering swifts dive-bombing Dottie Sherlock's chimney.

"It was the most fascinating thing I've ever seen," Mrs. Sherlock said in a telephone interview Tuesday as a chimney sweep was removing the last carcasses of the birds that had beat themselves to death inside the chimney.

"It was just like out of an Alfred Hitchcock movie," she added referring to the Hitchcock movie where thousands of birds attacked humans.

The Monday incident was the second time in a week that a home in rural Shasta County, 200 miles north of San Francisco, had been assaulted by huge flocks of birds. Last week a home in nearby Redding was also "attacked" by swifts, the fire department reported.

"I can't really explain it," said Dr. Murray Fowler, a veterinarian at the Davis campus of the University of California.

"We heard the noise and looked outside," Mrs. Sherlock said. "A huge black cloud of birds was over the house, then 30 or 40 would dive bomb into the chimney. The flock would circle and then 30 or 40 more would do it again."

But the birds were remarkably calm, especially those which managed to get out of the chimney.

"My 11-year-old boy held one in his hand for over an hour," she said. "At first I didn't want him to go out, but the birds weren't pecking or biting. Some were sitting on my dog and he didn't even bark."

The birds forced soot from the chimney into the house and hundreds of dead bodies fell to the bottom where they were trapped by the closed flue. Although there was little other damage, Mrs. Sherlock isn't taking any chances.

"It's a one-in-a-million thing," she said. "But as soon as the chimney sweep leaves, I'm going to put a screen over the chimney. They might be back."

Dempster, Blanton, Collins confirmed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate Wednesday approved several of Gov. Joseph Teasdale's appointees including Robert A. Dempster of Sikeston to the University of Missouri Board of Curators.

The new curator told the Senate Gubernatorial Appointments Committee earlier in the day that he is a "fiscal conservative."

The Senate also approved the appointment of James Estes to the Board of Regents of Southeast Missouri State University. Estes is from Cape Girardeau.

David Blanton of Sikeston was reappointed to the Missouri Election Commission by Teasdale and that appointment was confirmed by the Senate Wedensday.

Other appointments given approval Wednesday were:

—Donald D. Schanker of Kansas City, state Board of Pharmacy.

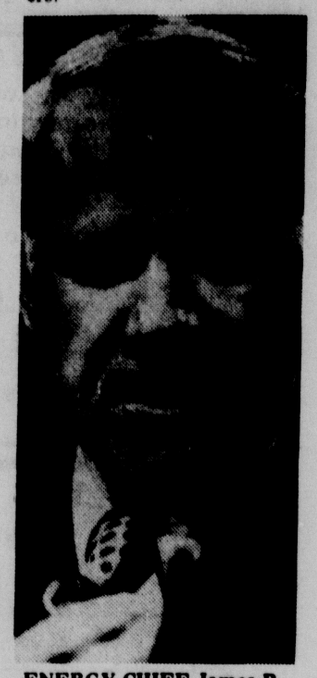

—Charles Zurheide of St. Louis, Board of Architects, Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors.

—Virginia Collins of Sikeston, Board of Nursing.

—Daniel Needham of Eldon, commissioner of water safety.

—Lounneer Pemberton, Frank Paxton Jr., and Clinton Kanaga, Kansas City Police Commission.

—John Kelley, Samuel Epstein and William Dancy, all of Kansas City, to the Kansas City Board of Election Commissioners.

ENERGY CHIEF James R. Schlesinger believes that despite the energy pinch the national economy will continue to expand, but warns that nevertheless Americans must sacrifice such long-held "cherished beliefs" as the inexhaustibility of resources.

Proprietary school regulation advances

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House gave first-round approval Wednesday to state regulation of proprietary schools such as business colleges and trade schools.

The proposal would bring more than 250 of the institutions in Missouri under control of the state Coordinating Board of Higher Education. It still faces final House approval before going on to the Senate where a similar bill was killed earlier this year in committee.

"For years, Missouri has been a haven for these schools with no protection for the public," said Rep. Hal Lowenstein, R-Kansas City. "We have seen these schools undercapitalized, the faculty not trained, schools that have used deceptive and misleading advertising."

Under the bill, sponsored by Kansas City Democrat Clarence Heflin, the schools would have to be certified by the state and meet minimum standards that include qualifications for faculty and administrators, adequate facilities, financial stability, and provisions for refunds offers to students who withdraw from the course before completion. Those standards would be set by the Coordinating Board.

"We've had scandals in this state" involving proprietary schools, Lowenstein said, "girls coming in from all over to become airline stewardesses and there was absolutely no job at the end of the rainbow."

FIRES

PORTAGEVILLE — The fire department was called at 12:45 p.m. Wednesday to a fire at the Archie Newton home in Conran. Cause of the fire was not recorded, but the house was reported destroyed.

CITY COURT

PORTAGEVILLE — Jerry D. and Jimmy Carnail were fined $20 each in City Court for fighting, and Alonzo Wigfall was assessed a $40 fine for careless and reckless driving, causing an accident.

CIRCUIT COURT

BLOOMFIELD — Criminal cases heard last week by Judge Flake McHaney in Stoddard County Circuit Court included:

Rodney Maddox, no funds account, sentenced to nine months county jail.

Johnny Wasbutsky, possession marijuana— second offense, pleaded guilty, sentenced to three years in custody of the State Department of Corrections, placed on supervised probation for three years on condition he stay out of Missouri.

Former Sikeston man dies in auto accident

MOUNT AIRY, N.C. — Wayne Coleman Ables, 52, a former Sikeston, Mo., resident, was killed Tuesday afternoon in an automobile accident 12 miles south of town on Highway 52.

Born July 2, 1924 in Hayti, Mo., he was the son of Mrs. Esta Coleman Ables of Sikeston and the late Morgan Ables.

He was a veteran of World War II, a member of Central United Methodist Church and operator of White's Auto & Appliance Store in Mount Airy.

In addition to his mother, surviving are: his widow, Lee Nicholoson Ables of the home; one daughter, Mrs. Sherry Allred of Winston- Salem; one son, Mike Ables of Mount Airy; and two grandchildren.

Services are scheduled at 11 a.m. Friday in Central United Methodist Church with the Rev. Roger Tucker, pastor, officiating and Moody Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

The body was cremated.

3 rifles taken in Avert

AVERT — Three rifles were reported stolen sometime Tuesday from the Wayne Wright home.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Wright work during the day, and when they returned home Tuesday night, the guns were missing.

The method used to enter the home was not available today from the Stoddard County Sheriff's Department, which is investigating the theft.

Tape player reported stolen

An eight-track tape player worth $30 was stolen from a car belonging to Susan Gail Huitt, Route AA, according to the Public Safety Department.

The theft occurred between 5 p.m. and 5:15 p.m. while the car was parked at Kingsway Mall. The player was under the passenger seat when it was taken.

CB radio taken in Dexter

The vehicle was not locked at the time, police said today.

Bird incident revives memories of "Birds'

ANDERSON, Calif. (AP) — It was a nightmarish scene plucked from the chilling movie "The Birds" — thousands of twittering swifts dive-bombing Dottie Sherlock's chimney.

"It was the most fascinating thing I've ever seen," Mrs. Sherlock said in a telephone interview Tuesday as a chimney sweep was removing the last carcasses of the birds that had beat themselves to death inside the chimney.

"It was just like out of an Alfred Hitchcock movie," she added referring to the Hitchcock movie where thousands of birds attacked humans.

The Monday incident was the second time in a week that a home in rural Shasta County, 200 miles north of San Francisco, had been assaulted by huge flocks of birds. Last week a home in nearby Redding was also "attacked" by swifts, the fire department reported.

"I can't really explain it," said Dr. Murray Fowler, a veterinarian at the Davis campus of the University of California.

"We heard the noise and looked outside," Mrs. Sherlock said. "A huge black cloud of birds was over the house, then 30 or 40 would dive bomb into the chimney. The flock would circle and then 30 or 40 more would do it again."

But the birds were remarkably calm, especially those which managed to get out of the chimney.

"My 11-year-old boy held one in his hand for over an hour," she said. "At first I didn't want him to go out, but the birds weren't pecking or biting. Some were sitting on my dog and he didn't even bark."

The birds forced soot from the chimney into the house and hundreds of dead bodies fell to the bottom where they were trapped by the closed flue. Although there was little other damage, Mrs. Sherlock isn't taking any chances.

"It's a one-in-a-million thing," she said. "But as soon as the chimney sweep leaves, I'm going to put a screen over the chimney. They might be back."

Dempster, Blanton, Collins confirmed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate Wednesday approved several of Gov. Joseph Teasdale's appointees including Robert A. Dempster of Sikeston to the University of Missouri Board of Curators.

The new curator told the Senate Gubernatorial Appointments Committee earlier in the day that he is a "fiscal conservative."

The Senate also approved the appointment of James Estes to the Board of Regents of Southeast Missouri State University. Estes is from Cape Girardeau.

David Blanton of Sikeston was reappointed to the Missouri Election Commission by Teasdale and that appointment was confirmed by the Senate Wedensday.

Other appointments given approval Wednesday were:

—Donald D. Schanker of Kansas City, state Board of Pharmacy.

—Virginia Collins of Sikeston, Board of Nursing.

—Daniel Needham of Eldon, commissioner of water safety.

—Lounneer Pemberton, Frank Paxton Jr., and Clinton Kanaga, Kansas City Police Commission.

—John Kelley, Samuel Epstein and William Dancy, all of Kansas City, to the Kansas City Board of Election Commissioners.

ENERGY CHIEF James R. Schlesinger believes that despite the energy pinch the national economy will continue to expand, but warns that nevertheless Americans must sacrifice such long-held "cherished beliefs" as the inexhaustibility of resources.

Proprietary school regulation advances

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House gave first-round approval Wednesday to state regulation of proprietary schools such as business colleges and trade schools.

The proposal would bring more than 250 of the institutions in Missouri under control of the state Coordinating Board of Higher Education. It still faces final House approval before going on to the Senate where a similar bill was killed earlier this year in committee.

"For years, Missouri has been a haven for these schools with no protection for the public," said Rep. Hal Lowenstein, R-Kansas City. "We have seen these schools undercapitalized, the faculty not trained, schools that have used deceptive and misleading advertising."

Under the bill, sponsored by Kansas City Democrat Clarence Heflin, the schools would have to be certified by the state and meet minimum standards that include qualifications for faculty and administrators, adequate facilities, financial stability, and provisions for refunds offers to students who withdraw from the course before completion. Those standards would be set by the Coordinating Board.

"We've had scandals in this state" involving proprietary schools, Lowenstein said, "girls coming in from all over to become airline stewardesses and there was absolutely no job at the end of the rainbow."

BWCA not protected

By H.E. Wright, Jr.

The Boundary Waters Canoe Area (BWCA) in northeasternmost Minnesota is larger than all other designated Wilderness Areas in the eastern United States combined — yet it isn't totally protected. A special provision of the Wilderness Act stipulates that "... the management of the Boundary Waters Canoe Area... shall be in accordance with regulations established by the Secretary of Agriculture with the general purpose of maintaining, without unnecessary restrictions on other uses, including that of timber, the primitive character of teh area...."

This provision — with its double negative, "without unnecessary restrictions" — has been the basis for controversy since the Wilderness Act was passed in 1964. The U.S. Forest Service has interpreted the provision to mean that logging is permissible, and it has allowed timbering in large portions of the virgin forest along the southern part of the area. Conservationists, on the other hand, claim that the intent and spirit of the Wilderness Act requires that the virgin forest be protected and preserved to "maintain the primitive character" of the land.

The virgin forest ecosystem of the BWCA, with its associated lakes and wetlands, has develped over thousands of years in response to the climate, physical setting, and the interactions of wildlife and other ecosystem components including such natural disturbances as wildfire and windstorm.

More than a million acres in size, the BWCA contains vast acreages of virgin forests over half of its lands. The other half has been logged, beginning in the late 1800's and continuing through 1972.

This activity has left its mark. While much of the area of early logging has partially recovered by natural reforestation and in a few more decades will have at least a resemblance to virgin forest, timbering in the modern style, with rock-ranking, herbiciding, pine planting, and the construction of gravel roads, has left a more permanent scar.

The region is a popular redreational area because of the myriad of interconnecting lakes and streams, most of them accessible only by canoe. Visitor use has increased by about ten percent per year since 1972, and restrictions are now necessary at the more popular entry points. Use also has extended into the back country away from waterways via foot trails. Thus, the present policy of preserving only the forest fringes visible from lakes and streams in nearly half of the area is an unsatisfactory compromise in the eyes of many conservationists.

Hunters relive forest history

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A hunter clad in buckskins steals quietly through a leafy glade, pausing occasionally to sound a turkey call.

He knows the end of April is the best time to hunt wild gobblers in the rugged, densely wooded hills where the Licking River flows through Eastern Kentucky.

The hunter again manipulates the box-call, imitating the scraping cry of a hen turkey. He listens, raises his long flintlock rifle and stalks cautiously in the direction of an answering sound.

An 18th century settler bent on stocking his cabin larder? No, he is a 20th century nimrod, one of many who seek out the wild seclusion of the 7,900-acre pioneer weapons hunting area in Daniel Boone National Forest.

For 15 years, the area has been set aside for hunters who want to shoulder the weapons, and often don the wardrobe, of two centuries ago.

The U.S. Forest Service and the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources manage the pioneer weapons area. "They manage the game — the bag limits and seasons — and we manage the habitat," said Charles Crail, of the forest service office at Morehead.

John Wilson of the fish and wildlife resources office in Frankfort said officials do not keep an exact count, but he and Crail agreed that hundreds of modern hunters come to try their luck with pre-Civil War weaponry.

That can include the bow and arrow, cross bow and muzzle-loading long rifles and shotguns. "There are even double-barreled muzzle-loading shotguns," said Wilson.

What is the attraction? "I don't know," said William Furnish of Frankfort, who has hunted the pioneer weapons area with a muzzle-loading rifle. "Nostalgia, maybe — or the realization that there's not much point in taking a modern high-powered multi-shot shotgun or rifle into the woods.

"First of all, you're not going to see that much game. And it's not really sporting," Furnish said. "I'm not really a serious hunter," he admitted. "I just go to be in the woods rather than to shoot something."

Most of the weapons used in the area are not originals from pioneer days, Wilson noted. "Most people who have an antique muzzle-loader, like a Kentucky rifle, wouldn't shoot them," he said. "They use replicas. There are several companies making them, and that's what most people use for actual shooting."

He said not only do several companies make muzzle-loading weapons, but many people buy parts and make their own.

"So a lot of these people are using weapons they built themselves. They're tinkerers — gunsmiths — as much as hunters or outdoorsmen," Furnish said.

The area's main species are deer, turkey, squirrel and grouse, along with "limited numbers of rabbit and quail," Wilson said. Hunting seasons and regulations are the same as for the rest of Kentucky.

Hunters relive forest history

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A hunter clad in buckskins steals quietly through a leafy glade, pausing occasionally to sound a turkey call.

He knows the end of April is the best time to hunt wild gobblers in the rugged, densely wooded hills where the Licking River flows through Eastern Kentucky.

The hunter again manipulates the box-call, imitating the scraping cry of a hen turkey. He listens, raises his long flintlock rifle and stalks cautiously in the direction of an answering sound.

An 18th century settler bent on stocking his cabin larder? No, he is a 20th century nimrod, one of many who seek out the wild seclusion of the 7,900-acre pioneer weapons hunting area in Daniel Boone National Forest.

For 15 years, the area has been set aside for hunters who want to shoulder the weapons, and often don the wardrobe, of two centuries ago.

The U.S. Forest Service and the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources manage the pioneer weapons area. "They manage the game — the bag limits and seasons — and we manage the habitat," said Charles Crail, of the forest service office at Morehead.

John Wilson of the fish and wildlife resources office in Frankfort said officials do not keep an exact count, but he and Crail agreed that hundreds of modern hunters come to try their luck with pre-Civil War weaponry.

That can include the bow and arrow, cross bow and muzzle-loading long rifles and shotguns. "There are even double-barreled muzzle-loading shotguns," said Wilson.

What is the attraction? "I don't know," said William Furnish of Frankfort, who has hunted the pioneer weapons area with a muzzle-loading rifle. "Nostalgia, maybe — or the realization that there's not much point in taking a modern high-powered multi-shot shotgun or rifle into the woods.

"First of all, you're not going to see that much game. And it's not really sporting," Furnish said. "I'm not really a serious hunter," he admitted. "I just go to be in the woods rather than to shoot something."

Most of the weapons used in the area are not originals from pioneer days, Wilson noted. "Most people who have an antique muzzle-loader, like a Kentucky rifle, wouldn't shoot them," he said. "They use replicas. There are several companies making them, and that's what most people use for actual shooting."

He said not only do several companies make muzzle-loading weapons, but many people buy parts and make their own.

"So a lot of these people are using weapons they built themselves. They're tinkerers — gunsmiths — as much as hunters or outdoorsmen," Furnish said.

The area's main species are deer, turkey, squirrel and grouse, along with "limited numbers of rabbit and quail," Wilson said. Hunting seasons and regulations are the same as for the rest of Kentucky.

250 take part in Bass Booster Invitational

The annual Bass Booster Invitational, sponsored by Mid-America Bass Fisherman's Association and Mister Twister Lure Co., was recently held on Lake of the Ozarks near Oasge Beach. A field of 250 participated.

The event, which was also the second regular tournament in MABFA's Central Division, raised $1,250 for the MABFA Bass Booster Fund, representing five dollars from the entry fee of each angler.

The funds, according to Mid-America, will be disbursed for the the improvement of bass fishing in accordance with the directions of the Board of Advisors. In the one-day event, which was held April 23, anglers competed for cash and trophies, along with championship points that lead to a berth in Mid-America's Tournament of Champions.

Jim Joy of Grantville, Ks., who has been a regular on the Mid-America circuit for a number of years, made up for some disappointments in the past by besting the huge field with five bass weighing 19 pounds, 10 ounces. Joy used a green Rogers Bass Rat in a shallow stump field on the Niangua arm of the lake to boat his winning stringer, worth $15 hundred, a trophy and an automatic berth in the year-end Tournament of Champions.

Bill Harkins of St. Charles, Mo., won second place and 750 dollars in cash, a trophy and valuable championship points by taking three bass that weighed 14 pounds, seven ounces.

Jack Fanis, Springfield, Mo., weighed in six bass, the largest stringer in the tourney, and took third place with 13 pounds, three ounces, good for five hundred dollars and a trophy.

Rounding out the top ten were: 4) Joe Poretta, Kansas City, Mo., 12-4; 5) Dick Collier, Springfield, Mo., 11-13; 6) Richard G. Williams, Ballwin, Mo., 10-6; 7) Harry Carr, Springfield, Mo., 10-1; 8) Bill Long, Joplin, Mo., 9-12; 9) Greg Poindexter, Springfield, Mo., 9-12; and 10) Bill Pace, Crestwood, Mo., 9-5.

In the new Mid-Eastern Division, the first of six regular tournaments was held April 30 on Rend Lake.

Some 210 anglers from four states competed for cash, trophies and championship points that are applied to the divisional Tournament of Champions.

Walter Buchholz of St. Louis used a one-half ounce chartreuse Blakemore Buzz Spin in shallow grass areas to boat five good bass weighing a total of 14 pounds, 11 ounces. He topped the large field in this one-day event to take the first prize honors, which included $1260 in cash, a trophy and an automatic berth in the championship tournament to be held this fall.

Buchholz fished out of the back of a boat owned by Mike Harlow of Mt. Vernon, Ill., to whom much credit was given by Buchholz for his victory. Harlow did well in the competition, too, taking second place with five bass that weighed 11 pounds, two ounces and taking home $630 plus a trophy.

The next event on the tournament calendar for Mid-America's Mid-Eastern division will be the 1977 Bass Booster Invitational, to be held May 28 on Lake Shelbyville.

Ventilation important

The greatest cause of fires and explosions aboard recreational boats is the ignition of gasoline fumes that have collected in the lower parts of the boat. Gasoline vapor is heavier than air and sinks into the lower compartments.

If clean air isn't forced into these spaces to blow the gasoline vapors out of the boat, it accumulates there waiting for the first spark — from a cigarette ash or even from an electrical switch.

Think about this for a second, one cup of gasoline allowed to vaporize has the same potential explosive power as fifteen sticks of dynamite. It doesn't take much imagination to picture what effect that power would have exploding into the bilges of a 25-foot cabin cruiser.

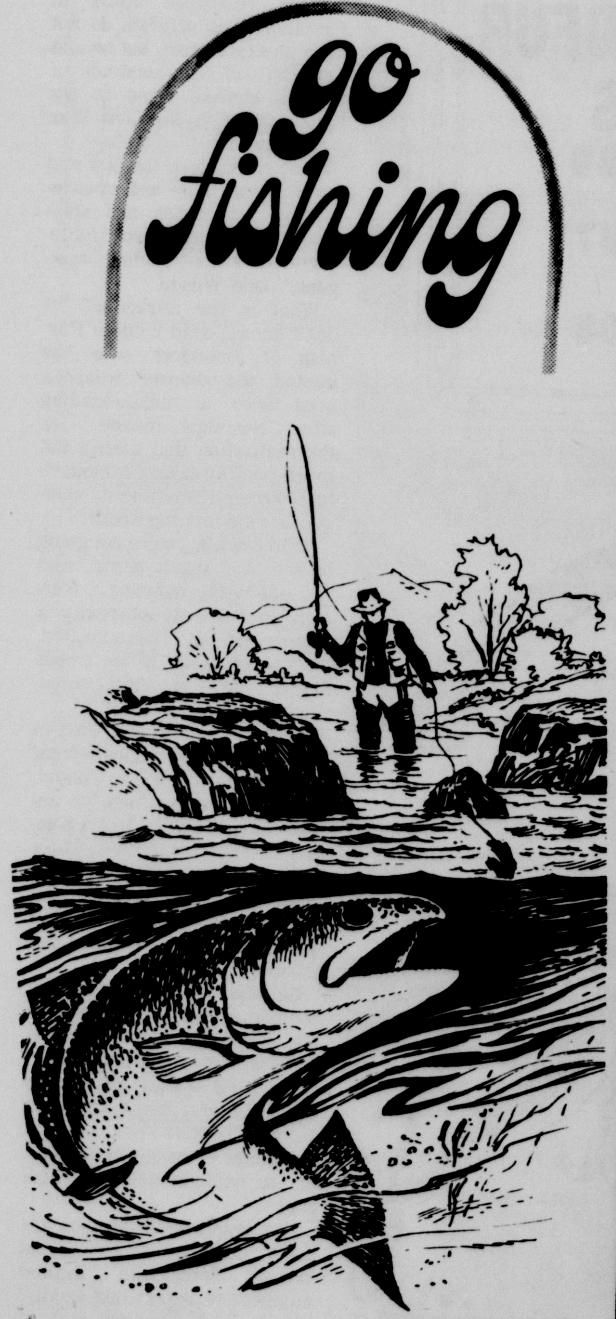

To date, no completely foolproof ventilation system has been developed. However, craft with enclosed fuel and engine spaces are required to have some form of adequate ventilation.

Most ventilation systems today employ a series of cowls and tubing. Fresh air is directed into lower bilges spaces using forward-facing wind scoops commonly called cowls. Large flexible tubes lead down from the cowls into the spaces to be ventilated. If these spaces enclose an engine, the intake tube should reach down at least below the level of the carburetor intake.

A similar tube, or set of tubes, leads from near the bottom of the engine spaces upward to an after-facing exhause exhaust cowl. The forward motion of the craft creates a vacuum that draws the vapor up and out of the enclosed spaces. The exhaust tubing should extend as low as possible into the bilges without being n a position where it may be blocked by any accumulation of bilge water.

The minimum allowable diameter of the tubing connected to the cowls is two inches

Remember, the exhaust cowl method only works if the vessel is in motion. To ventilate your enclosed spaces during starting or idling, either completely open the engine compartment or use special vapor and explosion-proof electric fans. If you choose a powered blower, make sure you select a spark-proofed, electric on-off switch.

Governor's cup regatta this weekend

The Governor's Cup Regatta, the annual spring sailboat races on Kentucky Lake will take place beginning May 14, on this huge man- man lake in western Kentucky

The races, sponsored by the Lake sailing club are being held on Saturday and Sunday for two consecutive weekends. May 14-15 and 21- 22. Sailors from several states will gather at Kenlake State Resort Park near Aurora for the colorful events. The races are open to the public.

The schedule on May 14- 15 will feature races for small sailing classes. The second weekend, May 21-22 is reserved for the cruising class sailboats -- larger craft which have a head and living quarters. These crising sailboats range in length from about 24 to 35 feet.

Leo Knowles of Nashville, Tennessee took top honors in the Professional Bass Association tournament on Lake Barkley in Western Kentucky last weekend.His catch of 30lb 6oz was the largest weighed in at Port Prizer Point, headquarters for the tournament.

A total of 412 fish were taken in the 2- day tournament. Contestants were allowed to fish both Barkley and Kentucky Lakes, a condition made possible by a canalwhich connects these two large lakes.

Fishing activity on Kentucky and Barkley Lakes remains fair, with most action being recorded by those fishing for catfish. Large catfish in good numbers are being taken near the shoreline as they come in for the spawn.

Due to the continued cool weather, crappie are still being taken in deeper waters, at depths of 5 to 10 feet.

KWW Sampler

The Kentucky Travelers Motorcycle Club is sponsoring a 3- day senic road tour of Land Between TheLakes May 20- 21-22. The AMA- sanctioned event includes two different tours of TVA's 170,000- acre wildlife and outdoor recreation area, as well as evening entertainment and a special tour of Kentucky Dam.

Over 200 motorcyclists from all over the nation are expected to register at Kentucky Damn Village State Park for the events. Special rides on Saturday are scheduled to raise money for the Hemophilia fund and the Kentucky's Sheriff's Boys Ranch.

Kaintuck Territory, a popular family vacation attraction in Western Kentucky will open for the season May 21, with a lineup of top music stars for its summer concert series. The facility, billed as a Kentucky town of the 1880's complete with train rides, shoot- outs, and magic shows, has been featuring top country and pop entertainers in its summer concert series. Entertainers scheduled for the 1977 summer season include the Statler Brothers, Jim Ed Brown, Barbara Mandrell, Marty Robbins. Loretta Lynn, Tom T. Hall and others.

$3,800 in cash and prizes will be awarded at this year's Kentucky State Charity Horse Show, May 20 and 21 to be held in the West Kentucky Livestock and Exposition Center in Murray, KY. 95 cash prizes will be awarded in 19 of the 22 classes held in the competition.

Use of steel shot required

KANSAS CITY, MO. -- U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) migratory bird hunting regulations will require use of steel shot in only two counties in Iowa, and one in Missouri for 1977, according to FWS Area Manager Tom Saunders.

Saunders said the new regulations, issued April 28, are intended to reduce the availability of poisonous lead pellets to feeding waterfowl. The areas designated as non- toxic (steel) shot zones for waterfowl hunting seasons commencing in 1977 in the Mississippi Flyway States within his area of responsibility are:

-- Iowa, in Fremont and Mills Counties on all waters and a 150-yard zone of land adjacent to these waters. The waters referred to include lakes, ponds, marshes, swamps, rivers, streams and seasonally flooded areas of all types. Excluded from these provisions are the waters of the Missorui River and drainage ditches and temporary sheet water that are more than 150 yards from the waters described;

– Missouri, all waters of St. Charles County and within a 150-yard zone of land adjacent to the margins of these waters. This includes lakes, ponds, marshes, swamps, rivers, streams and seasonally flooded areas of all types. Drainage ditches and temporary sheet water more than 150 yards from the water areas described are excluded from the non- toxic shot requirement.

Approximately two million ducks die annually from ingesting lead shot that to the feeding duck resemble plant seeds or food. The lead is converted in the duck's gizzard to a soluble form and absorbed into the blood stream, leading frequently to death. Saunders said these ducks are lost without providing benefit to anyone, hunter or non-hunter. The FWS expects lead poisoning mortality to be reduced eventually by approximately 75 percent (1.5 million birds) through the steel shot program. Because of the assured availability of steel shot only in 12 gauge shells for the 1977 seasons, the new regulations allow the use of lead (toxic) shot in guns bored smaller than 12 gauge (16 or 20 gauge, for example). But about 85 percent of all waterfowl hunters do use 12 guage guns, and it is expected that non- toxic shot shells will be available for all popular guage guns in the near future. In the interim, the requirement for steel shot in 12 guage guns in the designated lead poisoning "hot spots" will make a substantial reduction in lead shot availability to feeding waterfowl.

The phase in of steel shot ammunition began in 1976 in the Atlantic Flyway and has been extended to selected areas of the Mississippi Flyway for the 1977 waterfowl hunting season. The steel shot requirement will got to portions of the Central and Pacific Flyways in 1978.

The initial zones for the steel shot requirement were selected where there has been high incidence of lead poisoning of waterfowl, or where duck feeding areas have known high densities of lead pellet deposits.

Saunders said that in coming weeks the Service also will develop a proposal for the use of steel shot on lands managed by the Fish and Wildlife Service. He said in some cases these lands will be within the zones described in the nationwide regulations published on April 28, and in other cases they will be in addition to the zones described in those regualtions.

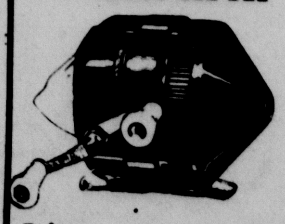

Spring fishing is among the best in the nation at Lake Barkley and Kentucky Lake in western Kentucky and Tennessee, particularly for big largemouth bass and slab-sized crappie. Kentucky Lake is nationally famed for her spring crappie run, and Lake Barkley is producing some of the best bass fishing in the country. Land Between The Lakes, TVA's 170,000- acre outdoor recreation area between the two lakes, has more than 300 miles of shoreline on these two lakes, and there are no commercial facilities of any type to mar the quiet beauty of the countless bays, coves, and creeks. There's a wide range of tent and trailer camping sites in Land Between The Lakes, and on the west shore of Kentucky Lake and the east short of Lake Barkley are scores of resort parks, fishing camps, resort motels, boat docks, and other visitor services.
